COMMERCE AND SHIPPING.

The exportation of the agricultural produce of the country has always been the principal commercial business carried on in Ireland. During the revolutionary war, this country furnished a large share of the provisions for the army and navy, and it still sends supplies to the colonial markets. But Great Britain is by far the best and most extensive market for all sorts of Irish produce. By much the greater part of the export trade is carried on by the cross-channel navigation, chiefly to Liverpool, Bristol, and Glasgow, the staple articles being black cattle, sheep, swine, salted provisions, grain, flour, butter, eggs, and linen. The trade with the colonies and with foreign parts is comparatively inconsiderable. The cessation of the collection of the duties on the cross-channel trade, which took place in 1825, has taken away the means of estimating the amounts of imports and exports to and from Great Britain since that period.

ANNUAL AVERAGE AMOUNT OF THE IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF IRELAND, for the Triennial Periods ending 25th March, 1790 and 1800, and 5th January, 1810, 1820, 1826, and 1830; for the Biennial Periods ending on 5th January, 1832 and 1834; for the Triennial Periods ending on 5th January, 1840, 1844, 1847, 1850, and 1853; and for each of the Years ending 5th January, 1854, 1855, and 1856: distinguishing the Trade with Great Britain from the Trade with Foreign Parts.

BANKS.

Previously to 1783 the whole of the banking business was carried on by private individuals. The failure of many of these led to the establishment, in that year, of the Bank of Ireland, with similar privileges to the Bank of England, the most important of which was, the restricting of all other banks to six partners each. In 1797, the Bank of England having suspended its payments, the same privilege was extended to the Bank of Ireland. After this period the issues of the Bank of Ireland were rapidly increased. In 1797, the amount of its notes in circulation was £621,917; in 1810, £2,266,471; and in 1814, £2,986,999.

In 1804 there were fifty private banks in Ireland, all of which have failed, or wound up their accounts, except three in Dublin that continue to transact business. About that period, the silver currency of the country, though generally in a debased state, became more valuable in the form of bullion, and was all melted down. The place of the coins was supplied in Dublin, and many other parts, by counterfeits; and in several districts by a paper currency, issued for sums decreasing from 6s. to 3d., and even less. It is estimated that in 1804 there were 295 issuers of this paper money, chiefly by merchants, shopkeepers, and petty dealers. The mischiefs arising from this system led at length to its suppression by law, and the wants of the trade were supplied by stamped dollars rated at 6s., and by silver tokens of 10d. and 5d., issued by the Bank of Ireland.

In 1821 the charter of the Bank of Ireland was renewed for seventeen years, and joint-stock banks were allowed to be established beyond 50 miles Irish from Dublin; but the arrangement was inoperative until several vexatious restrictions were repealed in 1824. This relief was followed by the institution of the Provincial, Hibernian, Northern, and some other banks, and the Bank of Ireland then began to establish branches in the country towns.

On the expiry of the Bank of Ireland's charter in 1838, it was continued by Act of Parliament from year to year until 1845, since which time it has been regulated by the new banking act, 8 & 9 Vic. c. 37, according to the following principles:—The bank to continue the banker of Government, which is to pay, for the ten subsequent years, 3½ per cent. on the debt it owes to the bank. The proceedings of the establishment to be under the same rule which has been applied by parliament to other banking institutions, and to make weekly returns, similar to those of the Bank of England under the new act, containing a full development of its affairs, the amount of its bullion, and the variations in the quantity thereof. By the same Act, any bank privileged to make and issue notes may relinquish this right in favour of the Bank of Ireland according to certain regulations, but cannot resume such privilege. Persons having charge of public moneys may be members of banks—members to be responsible for the liabilities of the bank—may sue and be sued in the name of their officers—names of partners to be returned annually to the Stamp Office (penalty £50), and to be published in the Dublin Gazette. Bankers who have issued notes in the year preceding 1st May, 1845, and none others, may continue such issue on receiving a certificate from the Stamp Office stating the average amount of their notes during that period, and of the amount of their gold and silver coin—weekly accounts of the amount of notes and gold are to be rendered to the Stamp Office, and a four-weeks' average of same to be set forth; if the monthly circulation exceed the average, the excess to be forfeited—monthly return of averages to be published in the Dublin Gazette—bankers' books may be inspected by an officer of stamp duties, with consent of the Treasury—notes to be for a pound or pounds only, without fractional parts; penalty £20. Notes of bankers or others, bills of exchange, transferable orders and undertakings for delivery of goods, issued after 1845 to be void, if under £1; penalty £5 to £50. Notes for £1 or less than £5 issued after 1845, must specify the name and place of abode of the person to whom payable. Persons issuing notes for less than £5, payable on demand (except bankers), to forfeit £20. Drafts or orders may be drawn on a banker, for payment of money held by him to the use of the drawer. The new regulations took effect 6th December, 1845.

The amount of the average circulation of the joint-stock banks in Ireland issuing notes, during one year preceding the 1st day of May, 1845, as published in the Dublin Gazette, pursuant to the Act 8 & 9 Vic. c. 37, was rated at £6,354,494.

The Bank of Ireland was originally established with a capital of £600,000, enlarged at various times, and on the renewal of the charter in 1821, was increased to £3,000,000, of which £1,615,384 was lent to Government at 4 per cent., and £1,015,384 at 5 per cent.—total, £2,630,769. The yearly dividends of the bank have been at no time less than 5½ per cent., except in 1783-4, when they were 5, and in 1792-3, 2½. From 1800 to 1814 they were 7, 7½, and 7½; from 1814 to 1829, 10 per cent., excepting two years; and since 1829 the rates have been 8, 8½, and 9 per cent. Besides these dividends, the proprietors at different times have received bonuses amounting to £800,000. A bonus of 5 per cent. was paid to shareholders in January, 1856.

The Hibernian Joint-Stock Bank was formed in Dublin in 1824. Its capital is £1,000,000, in 10,000 shares, of £100 each, upon which 25 per cent. has been paid—£250,000. The bank has branches at Athy, Drogheda, and Mullingar, but does not issue notes. The following table shows the progress of the bank:—

The net profit in the year 1856 was £23,933 11s. 7d., after deducting all charges for management and income tax, which enabled the Bank to declare the annual dividend of 6 per cent., with a bonus of 3 per cent.

The Provincial Bank of Ireland was established in 1825, and is managed by a board in London, and by local managers and other officers at the several branches in Ireland. The paid up capital of the bank is £540,000, and its fixed issue is £927,667. The notes of the bank are made payable at each branch where issued, but are exchanged at the other branches.

The following is a copy of the balance sheet attached to the last report, delivered May 15, 1856:—

The amount of rest or undivided profits, at 31st March, 1855, was,	£162,216 15 8
Out of which there have been paid two half-yearly dividends, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, amounting to	43,200 0 0
And a bonus of 4 per cent. at Midsummer 1855, amounting to	21,600 0 0
Leaving a balance of	£97,416 15 8
To which there have been added, the net profits for the year ending 29th March, 1856, after deducting Property Tax, and all expenses, and providing for all bad and doubtful debts,	99,370 16 8
Making the amount of rest, or undivided profits, at 29th March, 1856,	£196,787 12 4

The National Bank was established in 1835, and is managed by a board in London, in which is vested the supreme control of the local branches, which are established chiefly in the south and west of Ireland. The capital of the bank is £1,000,000, in 20,000 shares of £50 each, on which £450,000 has been paid up. The bank, as originally constituted, consisted of two bodies of shareholders—one the London, the other the local; and the profits of the branch were divided as a partnership account between the London board and the local shareholders. This plan was abandoned in 1837, and the local stock was consolidated at all the branches, except Clonmel and Carrick-on-Suir, the shareholders at these places preferring to carry on the business as originally founded; but in 1856, these branches were consolidated with the head establishment. The fixed circulation is £852,269. The following table exhibits the profits of the bank as reported to the shareholders at the annual meetings:—

The Banks of Belfast. There are three joint-stock banks at Belfast.

The Northern Banking Company was formed in 1825 on a private bank, and was the first joint-stock bank in actual operation in Ireland. The capital is £500,000, in 5,000 shares, of £100 each. On the share capital £125,000 was paid up; and a bonus of £5 per share was added to the capital in 1839—making a total of £150,000. The fixed circulation is £243,440. The rest was £59,778 7s. 3d. in 1854. The bank allows interest on deposits. The dividends have been as follow:—

1826—1834.	£3 per cent.	1835.	£7 per cent.	1838.	£9 per cent.
1835.	6 „	1837.	8 „	1839—1856.	10 „

There was also a Bonus of £4 per share declared in Sept., 1852, and another of £2 per share in Sept., 1853.

The Belfast Banking Company was formed in 1827, by the merging of two private banks. Its capital is £500,000, in 5,000 shares of £100 each, all of which have been issued. £125,000 were paid in three calls, making £25 per share paid up. There was a bonus of £10,000 declared in 1830, £10,000 in 1834, £5,000 in 1847, £5,000 in 1850, £5,000 in 1851, £2,500 in 1852, £5,000 in 1853, £10,000 in 1854, and £10,000 in 1856. The fixed issue of the bank is £231,611. The notes are payable at the place of issue. Interest is allowed on deposits for a term of three months. The rates of annual dividend to the shareholders have been—

5 per cent., from 1st Aug., 1827, till 1st Feb., 1835	8 per cent., from 1st Feb., 1846, till 1st Aug., 1854
6 per cent., from 1st Feb., 1835, till 1st Feb., 1836	12 per cent., from 1st Aug., 1851, till 1st Aug., 1856
7 per cent., from 1st Feb., 1836, till 1st Feb., 1846

The Ulster Banking Company commenced business in July, 1837. Its capital is £1,000,000, in 100,000 shares of £10 each, on which £187,000 has been paid up. The fixed issue is £311,079. The notes are payable at all the branches. Interest is paid on deposits. The dividend to the shareholders is 6 per cent. per annum.

SAVINGS' BANKS.

The system of Savings' Banks was introduced from Scotland into Ireland in 1810; and by an Act passed in 1817, a fixed interest of £4 per cent., reduced in 1828 to £3 0s. 10d. per cent., was allowed to the depositors. The first of the following Tables shows the amount of moneys annually deposited and drawn out, from 1821 to 1829; the second gives the total number of depositors, and the total amount of moneys deposited, on 20th November of each year, from 1834 to 1853, inclusive:—

The deposits in 1845, £2,921,581, were the highest amount lodged any year since the establishment of Savings' Banks in Ireland; but in consequence of the famine, the amount dropped down to £1,334,296 in 1848; it is, therefore, a gratifying fact, that the returns of 1853 exhibit an increase of £251,714, between 1848 and 1853.

LOAN FUNDS.

The loan fund system, under which small sums are advanced to industrious individuals of the working classes, to be repaid by instalments, with interest, was placed under the control of a Commission in 1836, by the Act 6 & 7 Wm. IV., c. 55. The rate of discount on loans has been reduced from 6d. in the pound to 4d., by the Act of 6th and 7th Vic., c. 91. By the latter Act loans may also be granted to be repaid by instalments, at 4s. per month, paying interest at not more than 7d. in the pound, on sums issued for five months, or 1d. in the pound per month. The state of the loan funds, from their commencement to the close of 1855, was:—

SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING.

Founded

1842 Mathematics, George Salmon, A.M.1842 Mechanics, Theoretical and Practical, Andrew Searle Hart, LL.D.1842 Principles of Physics, Joseph A. Galbraith, A.M.1842 Geology, Samuel Haughton, A.M.

Founded

1842 Practical Engineering, Sir John MacNeill, LL.D., and Samuel Downing, LL.D.1842 Chemistry applied to the Arts of Construction, James Appohn, M.D.1842 Drawing and Surveying, Samuel Downing, LL.D.

The School of Engineering was established with the view of combining, as far as is practicable, the theoretical and practical instruction requisite for the profession of Civil Engineering, and of imparting to the members of that profession the other advantages of academical education. The course continues for three years during the academic terms, partly by lectures, and partly in the laboratory and the field, and is arranged as follows:—

FIRST YEAR.	SECOND YEAR.	THIRD YEAR.
Mathematics.	Practical Mechanics.	Geology.
Theoretical Mechanics.	Principles of Physics.	Practical Engineering.
Chemistry and Mineralogy applied to the Arts of Construction.	Drawing, Surveying, and Levelling.	Drawing, Surveying, and Levelling.
		Field work in general.

The lectures, with the exception of those in applied chemistry and practical engineering, are open to all students having their names on the College books, free of expense; and either of the courses just mentioned may likewise be attended on payment of the Professor's fee. A model room and a chemical laboratory and workshop have been recently connected with the school, and diplomas for efficiency are awarded by the Board, on the recommendation of the Professors, on examinations held at the end of each year.

LAW SCHOOL.

In connexion with the arrangements adopted by the Benchers of the King's Inns, the Professor of Feudal and English Law, Dr. Longfield, lectures on the subject of REAL PROPERTY, on Wednesdays and Saturdays, at nine o'clock, A.M., during the College Term. The Regius Professor of Civil Law, Dr. Anster, will lecture twice in the week, on Tuesdays and Fridays, at a quarter past three o'clock, during the College Term. The lectures are open to the public; and the regulations of the Benchers require attendance on both courses from all Law Students (previous to being called to the bar) who are not graduates of Dublin, Oxford, Cambridge, or London.

MEDICAL SCHOOL.

By a recent resolution of the Provost and Senior Fellows, Diplomas in Surgery will be given to such Students as are matriculated in Medicine, and have completed at least one year in Arts, on certain conditions specified in the University Calendar. Degrees in Medicine are conferred as before.

UNIVERSITY MUSEUM.

The Dublin University Museum has been greatly increased, and is open to the Provost and Fellows at all times, and on Wednesdays and Fridays to persons having orders from Fellows or Professors. On these days, Masters, Scholars, and Students, in their gowns, are admissible, and may introduce their friends. Strangers visiting Dublin, may obtain admission, on presenting their cards, at any convenient time. The Lords of the Admiralty have given instructions to the commanders-in-chief on foreign stations, to direct captains and commanders of the ships under their orders, to receive any packages containing curiosities directed to the Museum; and it is hoped that those who desire to promote the study of natural history in Ireland, will avail themselves of this privilege, and send home the products of foreign countries, which hitherto have been often withheld, from the expense of freight, or the difficulty of finding conveyance. Packages sent thus, should be addressed, To the Director, Robert Ball, LL.D., Dublin University Museum, Dublin.

Law Agent, John H. Nunn, esq., A.M.—Registrar of University Electors, Mr. Charles Miller.
Organist, Robert P. Stewart, MUS. D.—Choir, John Smith, MUS. D.; William Robinson, A.M.; Robert Jager, Francis Robinson, Joseph Robinson, Richard Smith, Thomas Yeakley, G. L. Geary.
Booksellers, Hodges, Smith, and Co., 104, Grafton-street, Dublin; Longman and Co., London.
Printer, Michael H. Gill, University Press.—Bookbinder, Frederick Pilkington, 89, Middle Abbey-street.

MAGNETICAL OBSERVATORY, TRINITY COLLEGE.

Director, Rev. Joseph Galbraith, A.M.

The Magnetical Observatory of Dublin was erected in the years 1837–8 in the gardens attached to Trinity College, and at the expense of the University. Its approximate position is in Lat. 53° 21' N., Long. 6° 16' W.

The regular series of observations commenced in November, 1838; and in the year 1840, and three following years, the observations were made every alternate hour, day and night, upon the plan of combined and simultaneous observation, which has been adopted at all the magnetical observatories upon the recommendation of the Royal Society. The observations are now continued upon a modified plan.

ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATORY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF DUBLIN, DUNSINK.

Astronomer Royal, Sir William Rowan Hamilton, LL.D.—Assistant Astronomer, Charles Thomson, esq. This Observatory, endowed by Francis Andrews, esq., LL.D., Provost of Trinity College, and erected in 1785, was placed, by statute, in 1791, under the management of the "Royal Astronomer of Ireland," an appointment first filled by Dr. Henry Usher, and subsequently by Dr. Brinkley, Bishop of Cloyne.

The Institution is amply furnished with astronomical instruments, and is open to all persons interested in astronomical science, on introduction to the resident Assistant. It is situated in Lat. 53° 23' 13" N., Long. 6° 20' 15" W.

EXAMINATION FOR MEDICAL DEGREES.

Students who purport to present themselves for examination for medical degrees in the Queen's University, should ascertain that their names are returned for any medical lectures they may attend, lest, in consequence of such returns not having been supplied, their qualifications should be deemed insufficient when they so present themselves; and lecturers who are willing to make the required returns, and who have not received the necessary forms through the registrars of the respective institutions should cause application to be made for them. Returns of Students attending the following Medical Schools and Hospitals have been received during the year ended June, 1856.

The University Session of each year consists of three Terms: the first before Christmas, the second between Christmas and Easter, the third after Easter—extending, with the Christmas and Easter Recess, through thirty-eight weeks. The normal age of admission to the University will be considered to be sixteen.

A first Examination in the elements of Latin and Greek Grammar, of Mathematics, &c., will take place at entrance, when the candidate will be formally admitted as a Student of the University; and a second at the end of two years of residence, on passing which he will receive the title of Scholar of the University. The subjects of Study during these two years will be the Classics, Geometry, Algebra, Logic, Geography, Chronology, and Ancient, Irish, and English History. After passing his Examination, the Scholar, being then eighteen years of age, will be able to retire from the University; or he may pass into the Schools of Medicine, of Civil Engineering, and of other Material and Physical Sciences; or he will continue his studies in Arts for another two years, at the end of which, being twenty years of age, he will undergo a third Examination, issuing in the Degree of B.A. The M.A.'s course will follow.

School of Medicine.—The Medical School was opened in the autumn of the year 1855. Two classes of students are admitted to the instructions given in this School, viz., 1st, Matriculated Students of the University, of two years' standing; 2ndly, Non-matriculated Students.

All communications on University matters are to be addressed to the Secretary, Thomas Scrutton, esq., 87, Stephen's-green, South.

SCHOOL OF PHYSIC IN IRELAND.

The School of Physic, as constituted by Act of Parliament, consists of Six Professorships; three of these, viz. the Professorships of Anatomy and Surgery, of Chemistry, and of Botany, are on the establishment of the University—the three others, viz. the Professorships of the Institutes of Medicine, of the Practice of Medicine, and of Materia Medica and Pharmacy, are on the Foundation of Sir Patrick Dun. To these have been added, by the University, a Professorship of Surgery, and by the King and Queen's College of Physicians, Professorships of Midwifery and of Medical Jurisprudence.

All the Lectures (the Clinical Lectures excepted) are delivered in the Medical Lecture Rooms of Trinity College. The Professors commence annually their Lectures and Hospital Attendance on the first Monday in November.

At 12 o'clock, Sir P. Dun's Hospital is visited by the Clinical Professors, who deliver Clinical Lectures twice each week.

At 10, Dr. Law, on the Institutes of Medicine.

At 11, Dr. Osborne, on Materia Medica and Pharmacy.

At 11, Dr. R. W. Smith, on Surgery.

At 1, Dr. Harrison, on Anatomy.

At 2, Dr. Apjohn, on Chemistry.

At 3, Dr. Banks, on the Practice of Medicine.

At 4, The Professor of, on Midwifery and the Diseases of Women and Children.

The Lectures on Botany, with Demonstrations, and Dr. Brady's on Medical Jurisprudence, will be delivered during the Summer session. The Clinical Lectures at Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital will be continued during the months of May, June, and July. The Medical Library at Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital is open on Tuesdays and Fridays at three o'clock, for the delivery of Books to Students subscribing 10s. annually.

SURGICAL SOCIETY OF IRELAND,

Established July 11, 1831, by the Royal College of Surgeons, for the advancement of Surgical and Medical knowledge, and of the collateral sciences. All Fellows and Licentiates of the College are eligible as ordinary members of the society, and the Council are authorized to elect by ballot, as Associate Members, such medical and surgical practitioners, not fellows or licentiates of the College, as they may consider likely to co-operate with their efforts for the improvement of medical and surgical knowledge. The Society holds its meetings in the College of Surgeons every second Saturday during the winter, at 8½ o'clock, P.M., when papers are read and discussed, many of which, already published, have excited much interest in the profession at home and abroad. The expenses are borne by the College without any charge to members. Any gentleman, whether member or not, having a communication to make, and unable to attend, may have it read by the Secretaries.

Secretaries, Charles Benson, M.D., and O'Bryen Bellingham, M.D.

The Society is the oldest of the kind in the United Kingdom. It received for several years £500 from the privy purse, and has been in the enjoyment of Parliamentary grants for the last ninety years.

Members are elected by ballot, the admission fees being an annual subscription of £2 2s., with £3 3s. entrance, or a life composition of £21.

The Council meets on Thursdays, at 3 o'clock. The Society has three stated general meetings, viz., on the second Thursday in November, and the first Thursdays in March and June; and monthly general meetings on the first Thursdays in each month during the session, which extends from November to June, inclusive. Evening meetings for the discussion of subjects connected with practical science and art are held on the last Friday in each month at 8 o'clock. There are eight standing Committees, viz.:—Agriculture and Husbandry; Botany and Horticulture; Chemistry, with its application to Agriculture and the useful Arts; Fine Arts; Library; Manufactures; Natural History, Geology, and Mineralogy; Natural Philosophy and Mechanics.

At the annual Cattle Show in April, prizes exceeding £300 are awarded for superior breeding and fat stock, horses, sheep, swine, poultry, and agricultural implements; and an exhibition of Fat Stock, Farm and Dairy Produce, takes place at Christmas.

Lectures are delivered free to the public (between November and June) on Anatomy (in its application to the Fine Arts), Botany, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and Natural Science.

The School of Art is open (except on Saturdays) to male and female students. Prospectuses of Terms and Forms for Admission may be had on application.

BOARD OF TRADE—DEPARTMENT OF SCIENCE AND ART.
MUSEUM OF IRISH INDUSTRY AND GOVERNMENT SCHOOL OF SCIENCE APPLIED TO THE ARTS, 51, STEPHEN'S-GREEN, DUBLIN.

Director, Sir Robert Kane, M.D., V.P.R.I.A., F.R.S.
 PROFESSORS.

Physics, William Barker, M.D.—Chemistry, William K. Sullivan, Ph. D., Chemist to the Museum.

Natural History, William R. Harvey, M.D.; Acting Professor, J. R. Kinahan, M.B.

Geology, J. Beete Jukes, M.A., F.R.S. (Local Director of Geological Survey of Ireland).

Analytical Chemistry, Wm. K. Sullivan, Ph. D., Alphonse Gages, Curator of the Museum.—Clerk, G. Penny, esq.

Her Majesty's Government have formed in Dublin a Museum of Irish Industry, to represent and exhibit the materials for agricultural, mining, and manufacturing industry which Ireland contains, and to elucidate and expose the means by which those materials may be rendered available for the improvement of this country.

The institution embraces a chemical department, destined for carrying on such investigations as may extend our knowledge of the physical history and industrial capabilities of Ireland, and supply that analytical information as to the nature of our soils upon which sound agricultural improvement must be based.

The Museum includes a department of documents and records of an economic or descriptive character regarding the past history and present condition of our mining, manufacturing, and agricultural industry. To these documents reference shall at all times be easy to those persons interested in their study.

The information collected by the officers of the Museum, and the results of the investigations carried on in the establishment, will be from time to time published.

To an institution founded for such beneficial objects, the active co-operation of all classes may reasonably be expected; and Sir Robert Kane, the director, receives donations for the Museum, specimens of which will, when prepared for exhibition, be in every instance deposited in the Museum with the donor's name affixed. It is necessary that donations should be accompanied by an accurate description of their origin; and, if the director be apprized beforehand of the nature of the donation which it is intended to present to the Museum, he will be happy to supply special instructions as to the means to be taken to render the specimens the most suitable to the Museum, and the most honourable to the donors.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY OF IRELAND.—OFFICE, 51, STEPHEN'S-GREEN, DUBLIN.

Local Director, J. Beete Jukes, esq.—Geologist, W. L. Willson, esq.

Assistant Geologists, G. V. Dunoyer, F. J. Foot, G. H. Kinahan, J. O'Kelly, A. B. Wynne, J. Kelly, esqrs.
Collectors, J. Flanagan, C. Galvan.

In connexion with the Geological Survey of Ireland, maps and sections, exhibiting the geological structure of the island, are in process of publication. Index Maps of Carlow, Kildare, Wicklow, Wexford, and Dublin, together with several illustrative sections, have already appeared, but the publication of index maps has been suspended, and the geological work is now in course of reduction on to the new sheet maps of Ireland, on the scale of one inch to the mile, which will shortly be published.

There will also be a voluntary subscription in Dublin to defray the local expenses of making preparations for the reception of the Association.

NATIONAL GALLERY OF IRELAND,

(Incorporated under the Acts 17 and 18 Victoria, cap. 99; and 18 and 19 Victoria, cap. 44.)

OFFICES, PENDING THE ERECTION OF THE GALLERY ON LEINSTER LAWN, AT THE IRISH INSTITUTION, NO. 81, LOWER BAGGOT-STREET.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS AND GUARDIANS.

The President of the Royal Dublin Society (His Excellency Geo. F. Mulvany, esq., R.H.A. the Lord Lieutenant).
 The Senior Vice-President of the Royal Dublin Society (The Under Secretary for Ireland (Lt.-Col. Thomas A. Laroom).
 Hon. Judge Jackson). William Dargan, esq., D.L.
 The President of the Royal Hibernian Academy (Martin Cregan, esq.). President of the Irish Institution (The Earl of Charlemont).
 The President of the Royal Irish Academy (The Rev. James Lord Talbot de Malahide.
 H. Todd, D.D., F.T.C.D.). Sir George F. J. Hodson, bart., D.L.
 The Chairman of the Board of Public Works (Richard Robert Callwell, esq.
 Griffith, esq., LL.D.). John Calvert Stronge, esq.
 George Petrie, esq., LL.D., R.H.A. John Edward Pigot, esq.

Treasurers, The Lord Chancellor, Lord Talbot de Malahide, and Robert Callwell, esq.Bankers, The Bank of Ireland and its Local Branches.Honorary Secretary, pro tem., George F. Mulvany, esq., R.H.A.

According to the Acts of Parliament, the first five Members of the Board continue Governors while they hold their respective offices; the next two Governors are elected by the Royal Hibernian Academy; the three next after these are appointed by Government; and the last seven are elected, by Donors and Subscribers, for five years from the passing of the first Act, 10th August, 1854; and so on, for five years at a time.

Subscribers of One Guinea a-year, and Donors of £10 or upwards in money, or of works of art accepted by the Board, and by them valued at £20 or upwards, form the constituency by whom vacancies among the last named seven are to be filled up by election. Donors of £10 or upwards to any fund which may be transferred to the Board enjoy the same privilege—such as the funds of the Irish Institution, and those of the Dargan Testimonial, the subscription fund towards which has been voted by the Committee for the purpose of assisting in the erection of the NATIONAL GALLERY.

The sum of £5,000 has been voted by the Committee of the Dargan Testimonial Fund towards the erection of the new Gallery, and £6,000 has been obtained from Parliament for the same purpose. The Royal Dublin Society has joined in the conveyance to the Board of a site on Leinster Lawn, Merrion-square; and a spacious Gallery is now in the course of erection. In the meantime, the various pictures and works of art presented to, or purchased for, the National Gallery of Ireland, are exhibited in the Exhibition of the Irish Institution, No. 81, Lower Baggot-street.

The National Gallery will contain, not only a Gallery of Paintings by the Old Masters (and such Works of Modern Schools as may be suitable for a National Collection), but also a Gallery of Sculpture, and a collection of Drawings and Engravings, as well as of books, in all languages, relating to the Fine Arts. Several donations have already been received, and some purchases made, for the Gallery, both of paintings and marbles.

The Board meets on the first Monday of every month, at the Irish Institution House; and the Committee of Management, every Saturday, at the same place.

Donations may be lodged in the Bank of Ireland, or any of its Local Branches, to the credit of the Treasurers, or remitted to any of the Governors of the National Gallery, or to the Honorary Secretary, pro tem.

Treasurer, Aquilla Smith, esq., M.D.—Secretaries, J. H. Todd, D.D., S.F.T.C.D., John T. Gilbert, esq.

The immediate object of this Society is to print, with accurate English translations and annotations, the unpublished documents illustrative of Irish history, especially those in the ancient and obsolete Irish language, many of which can be accurately translated and elucidated only by scholars who have been long engaged in investigating the Celtic remains of Ireland; and should the publication of these manuscripts be long delayed, many most important literary monuments may become unavailable to the students of history and comparative philology. The Society also endeavours to protect the existing monumental and architectural remains of Ireland, by directing public attention to their preservation, from the destruction with which they frequently are threatened.

The publication of twenty-two volumes, illustrative of Irish history, has been completed by the Irish Archæological Society, founded in 1840, and the Celtic Society, established in 1845. The present Society has been formed by the union of these two bodies, under the name of the "Irish Archæological and Celtic Society," for the preservation of the monuments illustrative of Irish history, and for the publication of the historic, bardic, ecclesiastical and topographical remains of Ireland, especially such as are extant in the Irish language.

The books of the Society are published solely for the use of its subscribers, who are divided into two classes: Members, who pay three pounds admission, and one pound per annum; and Associates, who pay an annual subscription of one pound, without any entrance fee. The fundamental laws of the Society regulate the privileges of each class of Subscribers, who can also obtain the publications of the two former Societies.

Subscriptions are received by the Treasurer, Aquilla Smith, M.D., 121, Lower Baggot-street, Dublin; and by Edward Clibborn, esq., Royal Irish Academy, Dawson-street. Persons desirous of becoming Subscribers to the Society, are requested to communicate by letter, with the Hon. Secretaries, at 35, Trinity College, Dublin, from whom Prospectuses and Catalogue of the Society's publications may be had gratis and post free.

THE OSSIANIC SOCIETY, FOUNDED 1853.

President, Standish Hayes O'Grady, esq., Erinagh, Castleconnell.Vice-Presidents, Rev. Ulick J. Bourke, St. Patrick's College, Maynooth; Rev. Eusby D. This Society was instituted by voluntary subscription, in the year 1791, for the establishment of a Library. Since its commencement more than Six Thousand Pounds have been expended in the purchase of books, exclusive of considerable donations. The News Room is extensively supplied with Irish, English, and foreign Newspapers, and all the leading Periodicals. Subscription, One Guinea per annum. The business of the Society is conducted by a President, four Vice-Presidents, and a Committee of twenty-one, chosen annually by ballot, on 2nd February.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY OF DUBLIN,

Founded and endowed by Archbishop Narcissus Marsh, near the Cathedral Church of St. Patrick, Dublin.

FOUNDED A.D., 1694.—INCORPORATED A.D., 1707.

GOVERNORS.

His Grace the Lord Primate
 His Grace the Archbishop of Dublin
 Right Hon. the Lord High Chancellor of Ireland
 Right Hon. the Lord Chief Justice
 Right Hon. the Lord Chief Justice of Common Pleas

Right Hon. the Lord Chief Baron
 Hon. and Very Rev. the Dean of St. Patrick's and Christ Church, Dublin
 Rev. the Provost of Trinity College, Dublin

Librarian, Rev. Thomas Cradock, A.M., Trinity College, Dublin.

Assistant Librarian, Robert Travers, esq., A.M., M.B., Trinity College, Dublin, Fellow of the King and Queen's College of Physicians.

This is the oldest literary institution in Ireland, after the University of Dublin. It is often, yet incorrectly, called Marsh's Library; but has been most generally known as St. Patrick's Library, although, strictly speaking, it is not an actual part of the Cathedral establishment. Its position next the church, and the usage of at least a hundred and thirty years, have confirmed this appellation, which is that by which it was known to SWIFT, MOORE, MATURIN, and other eminent literary characters, who studied in it and, in some instances, composed their works. It includes the entire Library of the learned Stillington, Bishop of Worcester, which, to prevent its dispersion, Archbishop Marsh purchased and placed here, with his own collection, for public use, at the beginning of the last century. The endowment, being small and unimprovable, is inadequate to its extension to modern literature or science. The departments of Oriental and Biblical learning are well furnished, and besides several manuscripts of the Latin Vulgate, contain the original manuscript of the Irish version of the Bible, but unfortunately in an imperfect state. The number of volumes is now above 18,000. The number of readers ranges from 1,200 to 1,500 annually. The number of volumes actually used by them in the same period is about 7,000. This great disparity, between the number of students and of books consulted, arises from the circumstance that the greatest part of the library is theological, and almost the entire of it is of very ancient date. Hence the utility of the collection to diligent investigators of the original texts, and ancient versions of the Holy Scriptures; or of the commentators, fathers, and councils of the church.

There is ample space for extending the edifice, so as to extend and improve these, as well as to admit other departments of literature, particularly books of reference, which are much needed; but there are no funds for the requisite building. The Governors, who are also Trustees, are empowered by Act of Parliament to receive donations of lands, money, or books to any amount. But hitherto this privilege has been unproductive.

Readers are admitted gratuitously, and without any religious distinction, the only requisite being a satisfactory certificate of respectability and good character, which is usually required to be authenticated by a parochial clergyman, but strangers or occasional visitors are admitted to see the Library, and consult any book which it contains, without any introduction, on merely giving their cards of address, or otherwise supplying that information to the Librarian.

The Library is open from eleven to three o'clock each day, Sundays and vacation excepted. Entrance is in the South Close, adjoining St. Patrick's Cathedral.

DUBLIN MECHANICS' INSTITUTE, LOWER ABBEY-STREET.

Secretary, Mr. Thos. Leech.—Registrar and Librarian, Mr. Robert Smith.—Treasurer, Jas. Haughton, esq.

This institution was founded in November, 1837, and has for its object the scientific and literary improvement of the operative classes. It seeks to accomplish its object by means of a Reading Room, well supplied with literary and scientific periodicals; a Lending Library, and courses of Lectures, delivered periodically.

A subscription of Ten Shillings per annum, payable yearly, half-yearly, or quarterly, constitutes a member, and entitles him to the privileges of the News and Periodical Rooms, a Lending Library of Eight Thousand Volumes, and access to the Lectures (with power to introduce a lady), free. Members have also the advantage of getting Tickets at reduced prices to nearly all the public exhibitions that take place from time to time in the city. They can join any of the under-mentioned Classes at the very low premium attached per quarter:—Evening Classes, Mathematics, English, &c., 2s. 6d.; Drawing, 2s. 6d.; French, 5s.; Dancing, 5s.; Instrumental Music, 5s.; Vocal Music, 5s.—Day Classes for Ladies, French, 5s.; Italian, 5s.; German, 5s.; Singing, 5s.

THE CHEMICO-AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY OF ULSTER, 63, UPPER ARTHUR-STREET, BELFAST.

Patron, His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant.—President, Marquess of Downshire.
Treasurers, Guy Stone, esq., J.P., Baruhill, Comber, and William Simms, esq., Belfast.
Secretary, W. B. Ritchie, esq.—Assistant Secretary, R. M'Calmont, esq.
Professor of Chemistry, John F. Hodges, M.D., F.C.S.

This Society was established for the purpose of enabling the farmers and proprietors of Ulster to avail themselves of the assistance of Science in the improvement of Agriculture. A Laboratory, in connexion with the Society, has been opened in Belfast, under the direction of the Chemist, Professor Hodges, which has been found of great value in affording the members an opportunity of obtaining analyses of soils, manures, and other substances of agricultural interest. The Laboratory is also open to the manufacturer, who is thus enabled to ascertain the value of substances employed in the Arts, &c. Monthly Meetings and Discussions are held in the Rooms of the Society, on the first Friday of every month, and the Members are entitled to receive the Journal of the Society, which contains a record of the progress of Agriculture and Industry, reports of the Society's Meetings, and original Papers by leading scientific agriculturists.

Proprietors of land, and persons not deriving their chief support from its cultivation, are admitted members of the Society by an annual subscription of £1. Tenant farmers, by a subscription of 5s. annually.

ROYAL SOCIETY FOR THE PROMOTION AND IMPROVEMENT OF THE GROWTH OF FLAX IN IRELAND.—OFFICE, COMMERCIAL BUILDINGS, BELFAST.Patrons, Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen; His Royal Highness Prince Albert.Vice-Patrons, His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and the Earl of Clarendon, K.G., G.C.B.President, The Marquess of Downshire.Secretary, Jas. Macadam, jun.—Auditors, Jas. Campbell, John Preston.—Treasurers, Belfast Banking Co.

This Society was established in 1841 to introduce a better system of handling flax in its growth and preparation, to fit it for the large market offered by the flax-spinning trade of Great Britain and Ireland, and to increase the quantity grown to the amount required for the British and Irish linen trade, which would retain in the country the six millions annually paid to foreigners for the products of the flax plant. A staff of instructors is kept up, who are trained in Belgium in the most approved system of management, and who are sent to give instructions to all parts of Ireland where there are farming societies or landed proprietors subscribing to its funds. The Lords of the Treasury, on the recommendation of the Lord Lieutenant, place £1,000 annually at the disposal of the Society, in aid of its operations in certain counties of the south and west.

PRIMARY OBJECTS OF THE SOCIETY.

1. The establishment of at least one Annual Agricultural Meeting for the show of cattle, implements of husbandry, dairy produce, poultry, roots, seeds, &c., to be held in one of the four provinces, and, if possible, alternately every year, similar to those of the Highland Society, and the Royal Agricultural Society of England.
2. To encourage the formation of Local or District Farming Societies in the different parts of the country, and to enter into communication with them, and afford them every aid and assistance, by the safest and most effectual means, towards improving the husbandry, farming, and breeding of cattle, and culture of land in their immediate localities.
3. The encouragement and circulation of practical and useful knowledge connected with husbandry and agriculture in all their branches, through the medium of cheap and judiciously-arranged periodicals, or other publications.

POSTAL DIRECTORY.

GENERAL POST OFFICE, SACKVILLE-STREET, DUBLIN.

THE PAID LETTER OFFICE is open from 7 30, A.M. to 7, P.M. (on Sundays from 8 to 10, A.M.) for registry of letters, payment of foreign letters (only), sale of postage labels and envelopes, delivery of strangers' letters, addressed "Post Office," and to persons having private boxes; also for the receipt of "late" letters.

Letters to be "registered" must be brought to the Paid Letter Office, or to the local and town receiving offices, at least half an hour before the boxes close for the mail by which they are to be despatched; the fee, six-pence each, with the postage, to be prepaid by stamps.

THE MONEY ORDER OFFICE, for the issue and payment of orders, as well as the Missing Letter and Dead Letter Offices, are open from 10, A.M. to 4, P.M.; on Saturdays, from 10, A.M. to 1, P.M.

The "Daily Packet List," giving the latest information of the arrival and despatch of foreign mails is suspended in the hall; where also may be seen a list of foreign letters for persons in Dublin whose addresses are not known at the Post Office.

*. A special delivery is made of the English mail when not in time for this despatch.

THE SECOND DELIVERY is of Letters, &c., brought by the second (or night) mail from England, due at 9 50, A.M.

THE THIRD DELIVERY, commencing at 1 30, P.M., includes Letters from the Local Offices, those posted at Town Receivers up to noon, and at the General Post Office for the City and District, up to 1, P.M.

THE FOURTH DELIVERY, at 7, P.M., is made of letters arriving by the day mails from the interior, from the Local Offices and City Receivers up to 5, P.M., and those deposited in the General Post Office up to 6, P.M.

On Sundays no letters are delivered in the City or District but those brought by the first mail from England; and the despatch is, of course, dependent on its arrival; the second mail is not delivered until Monday morning.

MORNING OR DAY MAILS.

Mails are made up every week-day for the following towns; on Sundays only for the places marked *.

All INLAND LETTERS and PACKETS, including those from the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man, must be prepaid in stamps, at the following rates of postage:—

Not exceeding half an ounce in weight, . . .	1d.
„ one ounce, . . .	2d.
„ two ounces, . . .	4d.

and so on; 2d. or two rates being added for every ounce, or fraction of an ounce.

Inland Letters and Packets, if under four ounces in weight, may be sent unpaid, but are charged double the amount of postage to which they would have been liable had they been prepaid; and no Inland Letter or Packet must exceed twenty-four inches any way.

Addresses to Her Majesty pass free, and petitions to Parliament, if under 32 ozs., in covers open at the ends.

All Letters or Packets posted at any Post Office, except the G.P.O., St. Martin's-le-Grand, London, for places within the United Kingdom, must either be prepaid by stamps, or be sent unpaid, as money prepayment for Inland Letters is no longer permitted at any other Office.

No letter when once posted can be given up to any but the person to whom it is addressed, upon any pretence whatever.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL LETTERS being now charged by weight in this country, as well as abroad, the British scale of progression is as follows:—

Not exceeding $\frac{1}{2}$ ounce, . . .	One Rate.
Not exceeding 1 ounce, . . .	Two Rates.
And two Rates for every succeeding ounce.

The French and Belgian scale of progression is as follows:—

Under $\frac{1}{2}$ ounce, . . .	One Rate.
Weighing $\frac{1}{2}$ ounce, under 1 ounce, . . .	Two Rates.
And one Rate for every succeeding $\frac{1}{2}$ ounce.

According to the regulations of the German Customs Union, no Letter exceeding 50 grammes (a little more than $\frac{1}{4}$ oz.) in weight, and containing any other enclosure than paper, can be allowed to circulate by the post. Any Letters, therefore, forwarded in the mail to Prussia, above that weight, and containing any other enclosure than paper, will be liable, on their arrival at the Prussian frontier, to be stopped, and sent to the Custom House for delivery as Freight.

ALL SHIP-LETTERS must be prepaid. The uniform rate on letters between the United Kingdom and places beyond sea, (except those for France, Belgium, Holland, Hamburg, &c., to which places the rates are the same as by packet,) when conveyed by private ships, is as follows, in whatever part of the United Kingdom the letters may be posted or delivered:—

Not above . . .	$\frac{1}{2}$ oz.	0s. 8d.
Above $\frac{1}{2}$ oz. and not above . . .	oz.	1s. 4d.
„ 1	2	2s. 8d.
„ 2	3	4s.
„ 3	4	5s. 4d.
„ 4	5	6s. 8d.

SOLDIERS' or SEAMEN'S LETTERS are liable to a postage of 1d. when prepaid and not exceeding $\frac{1}{2}$ an oz.; when sent by private ship the gratuity of 2d. in addition must be paid; Letters to or from Soldiers or Seamen, from abroad, when not prepaid are charged 2d. Soldiers' or Seamen's Letters are liable to Foreign rates in addition, if sent to or through a Foreign Country, but to no further charge upon re-direction. Letters from Soldiers or Seamen, when addressed to the United States, are liable to the United States rate of 2d. in addition to the usual reduced rate, the whole of which must be paid in advance when posted in this country.

BOOKS, MAGAZINES, REVIEWS, PAMPHLETS, and MAPS, &c., may be sent between any part of the United Kingdom, by post, at the following rates—not exceeding 4 ozs. 1d.; not exceeding 8 ozs. 2d.; not exceeding 16 ozs. 4d.; and so on, 2d. for every additional 8 ozs.; and to Malta and Gibraltar, via Southampton; New South Wales, South Australia, and Van Dieman's

Land, by Packet, by Sea direct; Western Australia and New Zealand, by Packet or Ship; St. Helena, Natal, and Cape Town, by Packet or Private Ship; British West Indies, via Southampton; British North American Provinces, via Liverpool and Halifax; Sierra Leone and Gold Coast, via Plymouth; at a postage of 6d. not exceeding 8 ozs.; 1s. not exceeding 16 ozs.; 2s. not exceeding 32 ozs., and 1s. for every following 16 ozs., or fraction thereof; also to Mauritius, Ceylon, India, and Hong Kong, via Southampton, at a postage of 8d. not exceeding 8 ozs.; 1s. 4d. not exceeding 16 ozs.; 2s. 8d. not exceeding 32 ozs., and so on.

A Book-packet to these places may consist of any number of separate books, maps, prints, pieces of paper, or vellum, or any artistic matter, or any thing appertaining thereto. Each packet must be made up without a cover, or in a cover open at the ends or sides, and must not exceed 24 inches any way; it must not contain any written letter or sealed enclosure whatever, or any communication in the nature of a letter on the cover or otherwise; and if the postage paid upon an Inland Book Packet be less than 4d. the packet must consist of printed matter only. Those directed to India and New South Wales must not exceed 3 lbs., in the other cases the weight is unlimited. The postage must be prepaid in stamps. If one book-rate be prepaid, and the packet weighs over one rate, it will be forwarded, charged with the deficiency, and one rate additional; if not paid one rate, it will be sent to the Dead-Letter Office charged with unpaid letter rate; for other irregularities it will be treated as an unpaid-letter, and sent to the Dead-Letter Office. Books may be sent to Monte Video at 6d. not exceeding 8 ozs. under the same regulations.

Book-packets, Newspapers, &c., may be registered for Inland circulation, or to the Colonies, upon payment of a fee of 6d. in stamps, in addition to the ordinary postage.

Newsvenders or Publishers are allowed to print upon covers of any book parcel, newspaper, or stamped periodical, which they may send by post, the title or name of such newspaper or periodical, as well as their own names and address, but no other writing or printing on the inner or outer side of the cover will be allowed, except the address of the party to whom the paper is sent.

NEWSPAPERS, GAZETTES, PERIODICAL WORKS, Stitched or Bound BOOKS, PAMPHLETS, Sheets of MUSIC, CATALOGUES, PROSPECTUSES, ANNOUNCEMENTS, and Notices of various kinds, whether printed, engraved, or lithographed, addressed to France, or Countries through France, are subject to the following rates, which must be paid in advance:—

For a Packet of Registered Newspapers.

Not exceeding 4 ozs.	0 s. 4 d.
Above 4 ozs. and not exceeding 8 ozs.	0 1
Above 8 ozs. and not exceeding 16 ozs.	0 2
Above 16 ozs. and not exceeding 32 ozs.	0 4
Above 32 ozs. and not exceeding 64 ozs.	0 6
And so on, 2d. additional for every subsequent 8 ozs. or fraction of 8 ozs.

For a Packet of other Printed Papers.

Not exceeding 4 ozs.	0 s. 3 d.
Above 4 ozs. and not exceeding 8 ozs.	0 6
Above 8 ozs. and not exceeding 16 ozs.	1 0
Above 16 ozs. and not exceeding 32 ozs.	1 0
Above 32 ozs. and not exceeding 64 ozs.	2 0
And so on, 6d. additional for every subsequent 8 ozs. or fraction of 8 ozs.

To all parts of France, and to some Countries to which letters, &c., are sent through France, the above rates carry the packet to destination, no charge being there made on delivery.

PERIODICALS not of daily publication, issued in the shape of pamphlets, may be sent to Belgium, Bremen, Hamburg, Holland, Prussia, and the United States, at the following rate, which must be prepaid: not exceeding 2 ozs. 1d.; 2 ozs. and not exceeding 3 ozs. 6d.; 3 ozs. and not exceeding 4 ozs. 8d.; with an addition of 2d. for every additional ounce up to 16 ounces, above which weight the privilege does not extend; and at the same rate of postage, pamphlets, not being periodicals, may be sent to the United States, if not exceeding 8 ounces.

NEWSPAPERS (stamped) sent by the Post, must be made up in covers open at the sides, have the stamp exposed to view, and must be posted within fifteen days of publication, have no marks or writing (other than the address which may be written on the paper as well as cover) thereon, or any thing enclosed, which would subject them to Letter postage. They are forwarded from one part of the Kingdom to another free, (except those delivered within the free delivery, or three miles of the place where posted, which are charged 1d.) The paper must be so folded as to expose the stamp to view, or otherwise it may be detained. Unstamped Newspapers may be forwarded between places in the United Kingdom for 1d. postage stamp, if not exceeding 4 oz.; Newspapers for places abroad, however, need not bear a Newspaper Stamp, but they must be registered for circulation at the General Post Office, and paid for when posted.

Newspapers to Belgium, Prussia, and countries through Prussia, are forwarded free of charge to the sender. A rate of four centimes (nearly equivalent to one halfpenny) is charged upon delivery in Belgium.

Newspapers from Belgium pay 3d. each; and Newspapers from Canada pay 1d. each; Newspapers from Holland are delivered free.

Newspapers to or from the undermentioned places, via Belgium, will be charged by weight, 1½d. not exceeding ½ oz., and so on:—From or to Greece, Ionian Islands, Beyrout, Botuschany, Bucharest, Oanea, Constantinople, Dardanelles, Galatz, Gallipoli, Ibriali, Jassy, Larnica, Mytelene, Mostar, Rhodes, Rustchuck, Salonica, Samsoun, Seres, Smyrna, Tenedos, Theesme, Trebizond, Tulcha, and Varna. To or from other parts of Turkey, 1d. each.

Newspapers for Moldavia, Wallachia, Servia, the Levant, Egypt, and the Italian States not belonging to Austria, can be forwarded through Prussia, via Belgium, but will be subject to a Postage of 1½d., which must be prepaid. Registered Prices Current will be liable to the same rates of postage.

Newspapers published in Hamburg, Bremen, Oldenburg, or Lubeck, and addressed to the United Kingdom, when conveyed via Belgium and Prussia, or by private ship, will not be subject to any charge for Postage. If, however, the newspapers are transmitted from Hamburg, Bremen, or Lubeck, by private ship, they will be liable to a charge of one halfpenny each upon delivery.

All newspapers from abroad must be printed in the language of the Country from which they are sent, unless in cases exempted by the Lords of the Treasury.

Newspapers for Persons who have removed may be re-directed to them at any place within the United Kingdom, without extra Postage, provided they have not been opened at the place to which they were originally addressed.

Newspapers by private ships, if put into the Office within fifteen days after the date of publication, are forwarded to the several British Colonies, and Foreign countries, on payment of one penny with each paper; All Newspapers forwarded by Private Ships, except those between Ports in Great Britain and Ireland, must be paid for when put in.

PRICES CURRENT AND OTHER STAMPED PUBLICATIONS.—Every Price Current, Commercial List, Course of Exchange, Shipping List or other publication printed and published in the United Kingdom, not weighing more than 3 oz., the circulation of which by post, has been sanctioned by the Postmaster-General, and registered at the General Post Office for circulation abroad, will be placed upon the same footing as a newspaper, in all respects.

PRINTED VOTES AND PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS are forwarded to Canada, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Bermuda, and Prince Edward's Island, via Halifax, Malta, Gibraltar, and the West Indies, when sent by packet, as, and at the rates of "Books," which see; to the other Colonies, and between places in the United Kingdom, at the following rates:—Not exceeding 4 oz., 1d.; not exceeding 8 oz., 2d.; not exceeding 12 oz., 3d.; not exceeding 16 oz., 4d.; and so on, weight unlimited. When sent by Private Ship double the above rates must be charged (prepaid), but in the United Kingdom and some Colonies, by Packet, they may be sent unpaid. When insufficiently paid by stamp, the deficiency only is charged, where prepayment is optional; but when compulsory, they are sent to the Dead-Letter Office.

The same regulations as regards the manner of being made up in covers open at the sides, being printed in the language of the country from which they are forwarded, &c., apply to Periodicals, Pamphlets, and Parliamentary Proceedings, as well as Newspapers, and only one pamphlet or periodical must be forwarded under one band.

No reprints of Copyright works from any place abroad are allowed to pass at the above reduced rates; they are subject to letter rates of postage.

STAMPS, (British), may be used to pay the postage on Foreign, Colonial, and Ship Letters and Newspapers, and Parliamentary proceedings, outwards, but not inwards. In using stamps, care must be taken, especially for Foreign Letters, that the addition of the stamps does not increase the weight intended to be paid for, as Foreign and Colonial Letters in such case are liable to be detained for postage (where the prepayment is compulsory), or sent forward either unpaid or charged with the deficiency. Inland Letters insufficiently stamped are charged double the deficiency. Letters cannot be paid partly in stamps and partly in money.

TRANSMISSION OF MONEY, AND MONEY ORDERS.—An order from any one Post-office on any other, for any sum not exceeding £2, may be obtained for 3d., and for a sum between that and £5, for 6d. Payment of an order must be obtained before the end of the second month, exclusive of the month the order was issued in, or a fresh commission must be paid. Under any circumstances an order will not be paid after twelve clear months. The Money Order Office, G.P.O. Dublin, is closed at One o'clock on Saturdays.

REGISTRATION.—Inland, Foreign, Colonial, and Ship Letters, &c. may be registered upon payment, in money or stamps, of a fee of 6d., over and above the postage.

Registered Letters for France, and Countries through France, Prussia, and Countries through Prussia, must have the Foreign Registration fee and postage paid in addition to the British. The Fee, both British and Foreign, upon Registered Letters for France, and countries through France, is double the prepaid rate, and the Fee on Letters for Russia (via Belgium), is double the Foreign rate, (the Russian rate being 3½d. per ½ oz.), and the Prussian is 3d. for a Letter of any weight. Registered Letters must be posted half an hour previous to the ordinary Letters.

BANKRUPTS' LETTERS may be withheld by order of any Commissioner of Bankruptcy, and delivered to the Official Assignee, for a period of three months.

REDIRECTED LETTERS, (except those directed from one part of a Post-town to another), are liable to new rates of postage. Officers' Letters, however, which have been charged or have paid one Foreign or Colonial rate, are exempt.

STAMPS.—Every Postmaster, Sub-Postmaster, or Receiver, will sell stamps at the following rates:—

Penny Labels, ...	1d. each.
Twopenny do., ...	2d. "
Penny Envelopes, 24 for 2s. 3d., two for 2½d.
Fourpenny Labels, ...	4d. "
Sixpenny do., ...	6d. "
Twelvepenny do., ...	1s. "

Stamps should be placed on the right-hand corner of the Letter.

This Canal extends from Dublin to Robertstown, 25 miles, west; whence proceed two branches—that to the right, to the river Shannon, at Shannon Harbour, near Banagher, and thence to Ballinasloe, 94 statute miles from Dublin, with an off-branch to Kilbeggan; and that to the left, to the river Barrow at Athy, 55 miles from Dublin, with an off-branch from Monasterevan to Portarlinton and Mountmellick, 12 miles. Trade Boats ply regularly between Dublin, Athy, and Mountmellick, in the direction of the Barrow, and to Kilbeggan, Tullamore, Shannon Harbour, and Ballinasloe, in the direction of the Shannon. The river Barrow is navigable from Athy to Ross and Waterford. The river Shannon is navigable from Shannon Harbour to Limerick and Athlone, and Steam Boats ply regularly for conveyance of Goods to these and the intermediate towns on the river. The Midland Railway Company are carriers upon the Grand Canal and on the Shannon; their boats start as follow:—to Ballinasloe, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday; Athlone, Limerick, Killaloe, Portumna, Dromineer, Athy, and Kilbeggan, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday; Mountmellick, Portarlinton, Rathangan, and Monasterevan, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. All their boats travel by night. The boats to Limerick and all stations on the river Shannon start at 5 o'clock, and those to stations on the Canal at 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

General Traffic Agent in Dublin, Allen Nicholl, James's-street Harbour.

The Grand Canal Docks are situated at the termination of the Grand Canal at the River Liffey, near Ringsend.

The River Barrow has been rendered navigable from the town of Athy, where it joins the Grand Canal, to the Scars, below St. Mullins, a distance of 43 miles. From thence there is an open navigation for large craft, passing by the towns of Ross and Waterford to the sea, a further distance of 30 miles.

The two Navigable Rivers, Nore and Suir, fall into the Barrow—the former near Ross, the latter at Cheek Point, passing through Waterford.

The navigation passes through the towns of Carlow, Leighlin Bridge, Bagnalstown, Gore's Bridge, (within 9 miles of Kilkenny,) and Graiuenamanagh.

The Company are carriers upon their own waters, and upon the Grand Canal to Dublin. Their regular trade boats start from Dublin to Waterford, and return twice a week, calling at all the stations. A powerful steamer, the property of the Company, attends their boats (as also those of other traders at a moderate charge), to tow them on the tide-water between St. Mullins and Waterford.

The Board of Directors meets at Messrs. La Touche's Bank, to transact business, third Wednesday in the month, at half-past one o'clock, and the Court of Proprietors, quarterly; the Traffic Committee, every Wednesday, at three o'clock.

IRISH RAILWAY CLEARING HOUSE—KINGSBRIDGE TERMINUS, DUBLIN.

Chairman, Sir Edward M'Donnel.—Secretary, J. W. Elwin, esq.

The Clearing House was established in 1848 for the settlement of the accounts of Through Traffic in which two or more Companies are interested, and of those arising out of the use by a Company of other Companies Carrying Stock, and to afford facilities for the working of Through Traffic generally.

The Establishment is under the control of a Committee, which meets monthly, and is composed of a Director from each of the Companies that are parties to the system. Railway and Steam Packet Companies are alike admissible. Occasional meetings are held of the chief officers of the respective Companies.

The receipts apportioned by the House among the associated Companies amount to upwards of £150,000 annually, and its expenses are borne by the several Companies rateably, according to the amount of business transacted for each.

ANTRIM COUNTY.

ANTRIM, a maritime county in Ulster province. Boundaries: N., the Atlantic Ocean; E., the Northern Channel; S., Down; and W., Lough Neagh and Londonderry. Greatest length, N. and S., 56 miles; greatest breadth, E. and W., 30½ miles; comprising an area of 1,164 square miles, or 745,177 acres, of which 503,288 are arable, 176,335 uncultivated, 10,358 in plantations, 1,908 in towns, and 53,288 under water, including a portion of Lough Neagh. Off the N. coast are Rathlin or Raghery Island, and the Skerries. On the Maiden Rocks, off Larne Lough, are two Lighthouses, showing fixed lights. The principal bays are Belfast Lough and Larne Lough. The subsoil is basalt or trap, forming the celebrated Giant's Causeway on the N. coast, clay-slate, and limestone: there is coal at Ballycastle. There are also salt mines at Duncrue, Carrickfergus, the produce of which is of superior quality. One-third of the county is mountain, not rising more than 1,600 feet above high sea level, and declining from the sea-coast towards Lough Neagh in the S.W. The river Bann forms the W., and the Lagan the S. boundary of the county. The Lagan canal connects Lough Neagh with Belfast Lough. Bogs are large and numerous. The staple commodity of this county is the spinning of linen and cotton yarn, and linen and cotton weaving, in which the bulk of the population are engaged. The population in 1841 was 276,188, of which 256,352 was in the rural, and 19,836 in the civic district, exclusive of the towns of Belfast and Carrickfergus, and in 1851 the total population of the county was 355,224.

The county is divided into 14 baronies—Antrim Lower and Upper, Belfast Lower and Upper, Cary, Dunluce Lower and Upper, Glenarm Lower and Upper, Kilconway, Massareene Lower and Upper, Toome Lower and Upper, and contains 75 parishes and parts of parishes. It is in the diocese of Connor. The principal towns are, Belfast, including the suburb of Ballymacarrett, population in 1841, 75,308, in 1851, 100,300; Carrickfergus, in 1851, 3,543; Larne, 3,076; Ballymena, 6,136; Antrim, 2,324; and Lisburn, a small portion of which is in Down county, 6,569. The county returns 6 members to Parliament, 2 for the county at large, constituency in 1853, 8,206; 2 for Belfast borough, constituency, 3,282; and 1 for each of the boroughs of Carrickfergus and Lisburn, constituencies, 1,195 and 217. The county is in the North-Eastern circuit. The Assizes are held at Belfast. The county is in the Dublin or northern military district; and there are Barracks in Belfast and Carrickfergus.

The net annual value of property rated to the poor in the county, is £702,917. The amount of property valued under the Act 6 & 7 Wm. IV., cap. 84, is £467,028. In addition to the ten newspapers published in Belfast, one, the Ballymena Observer, is published in Ballymena on Saturdays.

ARMAGH COUNTY.

ARMAGH, an inland county in Ulster province. Boundaries: N., Lough Neagh; E., Down; S., Louth; W., Monaghan and Tyrone. Greatest length, N. and S., 32 miles; greatest breadth, E. and W., 20 miles; comprising an area of 512½ square miles, or 328,076 acres; of which 265,243 are arable, 35,117 uncultivated, 8,996 in plantations, 778 in towns, and 17,942 under water. The surface is hilly, rising into mountain in the S.W., where the highest point of Slieve-Gullion is 1,893 feet above high sea level. The Newry canal skirts the county on the E.: the Ulster railroad is extended from Belfast to Armagh. The soil is fertile, with much bog. Combined with agriculture is the weaving of cotton and linen, but the latter has been long the staple manufacture. The population in 1841 was 232,393; 211,893 in the rural, and 20,500 in the civic district; and in 1851, the total population of the county was 196,085, being a decrease of 6,308.

The county is divided into 8 baronies—Armagh, Fews Lower and Upper, Oneiland E. and W., Orior Lower and Upper, and Turenny, and contains 28 parishes and parts of parishes. It is mostly in Armagh archdiocese. The principal towns are, Armagh, the residence of the Archbishop, population in 1851, 9,306; Lurgan, 4,211; Portadown, 3,091; and part of Newry, 3,875; the other part, with 9,616 inhabitants, is in Down county. The county returns 3 members to Parliament; 2 for the county at large, constituency, in 1853, 5,154; and 1 for Armagh city, constituency, 370. It is in the North-East circuit. The Assizes are held at Armagh. The county is within the military district of Dublin, having Barrack Stations in Armagh, Charlemont, and Newry.

The net amount of property rated to the poor in the county, is £310,061, and the amount of property valued under the Act of 6 & 7 Wm. IV., cap. 84, is £236,860.

Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum, Lieut.-Col. JAMES MOLYNEUX CAULFIELD, M.P. (1849), eldest son of the Hon. Henry Caulfield, and nephew of the Earl of Charlemont, K.S.T.P., Hockley, Armagh; and Brooks's and Reform Clubs, London.

ARMAGH CITY.

ARMAGH, an inland city and parliamentary borough in Armagh barony and county, and Ulster province, 64 miles N.N.W. from Dublin; lat. 54° 20' 51-4" N.; long. 6° 39' 31-8" W.; comprising within its ancient boundary an area of 1,147 acres, and within its present municipal boundary 269 acres. Population in 1834, 10,764, of which 3,586 were of the Established Church, 1,532 Protestant Dissenters, and 5,546 Roman Catholics; population in 1841, 10,235, inhabiting 1,493 houses, averaging 7 persons to a house. Population in 1851, 9,306, inhabiting 1,378 houses. It is the seat of the archiepiscopal see of the Primate of all Ireland, whose ecclesiastical province comprises 6 consolidated dioceses: 1. Armagh and Clogher; 2. Tuam, Ardagh, Killala, and Achonry; 3. Derry and Raphoe; 4. Down, Connor, and Dromore; 5. Kilmore and Elphin; 6. Meath.

The town stands on the acclivities of a hill, of which the Cathedral, lately repaired and beautified, chiefly at the expense of the present Primate, tops the summit; there are also a Protestant Chapel of Ease, a Roman Catholic Chapel (a second is being built), 2 places of worship for Methodists, 3 for Presbyterians, and 1 for Independents. The other public buildings are the County Court House, Prison, Infirmary, Fever Hospital (supported at the expense of the Lord Primate, and capable of accommodating 40 patients); the District Lunatic Asylum, situate near the city, for Armagh, Cavan, and Monaghan counties, containing 135 patients in 1851; the Macan Asylum, for the Blind, opened in April, 1854; the Royal School, styled the College, a Public Library, built and endowed by Primate Robinson, in 1771, and lately rebuilt and improved—it contains about 14,000 volumes, some of them considered very scarce, and open to the Public daily from 12 to 3 o'clock—a Market House, a Linen Hall, a Yarn Hall, Music Hall, and Tontine Buildings (in which is a large public assembly room, and a spacious News room), Drelicourt's School, founded 1732, a National, a Sunday School, a School for the Choristers, which is maintained by the Vicars Choral; Rokeby Green, a place of public recreation, and an Observatory, with a very superior astronomical apparatus. Near the city is the archiepiscopal palace, with a domestic Chapel; also Barracks for 200 men. In or near the city are 2 Distilleries, a Brewery, not now worked, and several Tanneries and flour-mills. The Cullen, which empties itself into the Blackwater, passes near the town, and the Ulster Canal within 4 miles. The Ulster Railway now connects the town with Belfast, and that from Newry to Enniskillen, when completed, will be of great benefit to it and the surrounding neighbourhood.

The Corporation, which was styled "the Sovereign, Free Burgesses, and Commonalty of the Borough of Armagh," was abolished by the provisions of the Municipal Reform Bill. The Borough returns 1 member to Parliament, constituency, in 1855, 398. A Manor Court, under the Archbishop, holds pleas of £10 and under; but part of the city is in the adjoining Manors of Mountnorris and Charlemont. The lighting, cleansing, and watching the streets is vested in Commissioners, under 9th Geo. IV., c. 82. The Borough rates for 1856 amounted to £523, of which £521 was applied to watching, lighting, paving, and cleansing the town. In 1856, there were 190 houses valued at £20 and upwards; 226 valued at £10 to £20; 388 valued at £5 to £10; total value of the property rated, £12,312. Markets are held on Tuesdays, for general purposes, and on Wednesdays and Saturdays for grain. The tolls have been bought up by the inhabitants for the improvement of the town. Water is supplied by pipes, the management of which is vested in the Police Commissioners; and the streets and interiors of the houses are lighted with gas. There are two newspapers published in the city, the Armagh Guardian on Fridays, and the Ulster Gazette on Saturdays.

Member for the City—JOSHUA WALTER M'GEOUGH BOND (1855), The Argory, Moy, and 21, Montagu-street, Portman-square, London.

ATHLONE BOROUGH.

ATHLONE, an inland town and parliamentary borough in Westmeath and Roscommon counties, partly in Leinster but chiefly in Connaught province, 76 miles W. from Dublin, lat. 53° 25' 24" N., long. 7° 56' 29.4" W. Its area, according to the charter of James I., extended 1½ miles on every side from the centre of the old bridge over the Shannon, but is limited to 491 acres for electoral purposes.

It is situated on both sides of the river Shannon, and being considered one of the principal military positions in Ireland, is secured by strong works on the Roscommon side, covering 15 acres, and containing 2 magazines, an ordnance store, an armoury for 15,000 stand of arms, and barracks for 1,500 men. The Shannon Commissioners have much improved the navigation of the river at this place by the construction of a large lock, custom wharves, a weir wall, and the magnificent cut-stone bridge (opened for traffic in 1841); large river steamers can now ply without interruption from the rapids between Killaloe and Carrick-on-Shannon, a distance of 116 miles. A brisk trade with Dublin and Limerick is maintained by means of the river and the Royal and Grand Canals. There are in the town 2 parochial Churches, 2 Roman Catholic parochial Chapels, a Franciscan and Augustinian Chapel, Presbyterian, Baptist, and Methodist Meeting-houses, a Sessions Court House, and a Bridewell. The population in 1851 was 6,218, inhabiting 914 houses. There is a brewery. Fairs for horses and cattle are held on the 23rd January, 21st March, 24th May, and 4th, 5th, and 6th September; Markets on Tuesdays and Saturdays.

The Corporation, which was styled "The Sovereign, Bailiffs, Burgesses, and Freemen of the Town of Athlone," is extinct, and its property is vested in Town Commissioners, under a local Act for regulation of Tolls, Markets, &c. "The Athlone Market Act, 1852," with some public Acts incorporated therewith; "The Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854," has also been adopted. The Borough returns 1 member to Parliament, constituency, in 1856, 175. The tolls and customs for the year ended May 1, 1855, amounted to £300; and a Borough rate made 30th March, 1855, for the purpose of lighting the town, £391 10s. 11d. Quarter Sessions for Roscommon are held here. One newspaper, the Westmeath Independent, is published in this town.

Member for the Borough—Hon. HENRY HANDCOCK, (1856), Captain, 44th Regiment, third son of Lord Castlemaine, Moydrum Castle, Athlone; Army and Navy Club, London.

BANDON BOROUGH.

BANDON, an inland town and parliamentary borough in Cork county, West Riding, on the river Bandon, 177 miles S.W. from Dublin, lat. $51^{\circ} 44' 36''$ N., long. $8^{\circ} 44' 37''$ W. The electoral boundary comprises 447 acres. The population in 1841, including the suburb of Roundhill, was 9,049, of which 8,275 were within the electoral boundary, inhabiting 1,311 houses. Population in 1851, 6,929, inhabiting 1,028 houses. There are 2 parochial Churches, a Roman Catholic Chapel, a Convent, a Scots' Church, a Presbyterian and 2 Methodist Meeting-houses, an endowed School, Barracks, Court-house, and Bridewell. The manufacture of woollens and cottons has declined; that of fine stuffs is commenced; there are also manufactures of whiskey, beer, leather, and flour. A limited trade is carried on by means of the river, which is navigable for barges to Innishannon, four miles from the town. The Terminus of the Cork and Bandon Railway is in the centre of the town, convenient to the bridge. There are Fairs on the 6th and 25th May, Ascension-day, 29th October, 8th November, and the first Wednesday of every month, except May and November; Markets on Saturdays; the Fairs and Markets toll free.

The Corporation, whose style was "The Provost, Free Burgesses, and Commonalty of the Borough of Bandon Bridge," has become extinct. The Borough returns 1 member to Parliament, constituency in 1853, 205. Quarter Sessions and Petty Sessions are held here, and a Court of Pleas, under £2, for each of the three manors of the Duke of Devonshire, and the Earls of Shannon and Bandon. The lighting, cleansing, and watching is vested in Commissioners, under 9th Geo. IV., cap. 82. The number of houses valued at from £5 to £10 and rated at 6d. per pound, in 1843, was 145; of those from £10 to £20, rated at 9d., 200; of those of £20 and upwards, rated at 1s., 155; total rated houses, 500; value of property rated, £9,159. The Borough rates in 1851 amounted to £583, and the total receipts to £727; of which £436 was expended in public works and repairs.

*Member for the Borough—Collector of Excise, James A. Black, esq.Pro-Collector, W. G. Reid, esq.Clerk, W. Sillivant.Distributor of Stamps, Mr. George Gabriel.Postmaster, Mr. William H. BELFAST BOROUGH.

BELFAST, a maritime town and parliamentary borough, the Capital of Ulster, the chief manufacturing and commercial town of Ireland, and, since 1850, the county town of Antrim, chiefly in Antrim county, 101 miles north of Dublin, lat. $54^{\circ} 36' 8''$ N., long. $5^{\circ} 55' 53''$ W., comprising an area of 1,872 acres, including 576 acres in the suburb of Ballymacarrett, county Down; of this area, 1,542 are within, and 330 without, the municipal boundary. Population in 1834, Established Church, 16,383; Roman Catholics, 19,712; Presbyterians, 23,576; other persuasions, 1,137; total, 60,813; in 1841, 75,308; inhabited houses, 10,906. In 1851 the population was 100,300, being an increase of 24,992; the number of inhabited houses was 13,806; and the number of families 20,553.

The town is about 12 miles from the sea, at the mouth of the Lagan, which bounds it on the S.E., and flows immediately into Belfast Lough, which is 12 miles in length, and 5 in breadth at the entrance, gradually narrowing as it approaches the town. The river Lagan, which separates the counties of Antrim and Down, is crossed by 3 bridges and 2 boat ferries; the Queen's bridge, built of granite, on the site of the old long bridge, which had 21 arches, is a splendid structure.

Belfast is built on an alluvial deposit, and lies low, the greater portion being not more than 6 feet above high sea level; yet, on account of its geographical position, it is healthy. The Tidal Harbour Commissioners (1846) describe Belfast as "the first town in Ireland in enterprise and commercial prosperity," and "second only to Dublin as a port." Its places of worship are, of the Established Church, 12; Roman Catholics, 4; Presbyterians, 19; Unitarians, 3; Baptists, 1; Mormons, 1; Independents, 1; Methodists, 8; Quakers, 1. Its educational establishments are, the Royal Academical Institution, founded in 1810, by a voluntary subscription of £26,000; it comprises 2 large schools and a school of design,—the Belfast Academy, founded in 1780—the School of Design, established by government in 1849, and endowed with £600 per annum, in addition to local subscriptions—the Lancasterian School, now converted into a "Ragged" School, the first established in Ireland—28 National Schools in the town and its vicinity, having 4,334 pupils in September, 1848,—and numerous private seminaries. The new Queen's College, a fine building in the Elizabethan style, built from the design of C. Lanyon, Esq., was opened in October, 1849, and is adjacent to the Botanic Gardens. There are 4 news-rooms. The public libraries are in the Queen's College, the Royal Academical Institution, and the Linen Hall; the latter contains upwards of 10,000 volumes. There are 9 newspapers, one of which dates from 1737. The other public institutions are, the Charitable Society's Poor-house, with Medical and Surgical Hospitals attached, for impotent paupers,—the Lying-in Hospital,—the General Hospital—the District Lunatic Asylum, for Antrim and Down counties and the county of the town of Carrickfergus, which contains 281 patients,—the Deaf and Dumb and Blind Asylum, an elegant edifice, built in 1845 at the cost of £11,000, raised by private subscription, with accommodation for 100 persons,—the Union Workhouse, with a Fever Hospital capable of accommodating 600 patients with beds, and a building for Schools, capable of accommodating 1,300 children—both detached,—the new house of Correction, on the model of the London prison at Pentonville, and capable of containing 300 prisoners,—the new county Court House, opposite the Prison, with which it has a subterranean communication,—the White and Brown Linen Halls, the former built in 1785, at a cost of £10,000,—the Commercial Buildings, erected by a subscription of £20,000,—the Corn Exchange in Victoria-street,—the Belfast and Northern Joint Stock Banks,—the Museum in College-square, built in 1830,—the Theatre Royal, in Arthur-street,—the Music Hall, in May-street,—and within a mile of the town is the Royal Botanic Garden, comprising 17 acres. A new Town Hall is being built by the Corporation, and an extensive range of offices for the Customs, Inland Revenue, and Post Office departments, has lately been erected. A new and handsome harbour office has been built. Several of the places of worship are very elegant edifices.

The Borough of Belfast is governed by a Corporation elected by the 5 wards, St. Anne's, Dock, Smithfield, St. George's, and Cromac, each ward returning 2 Aldermen and 6 Councillors; from the former a Mayor is annually chosen. The Borough returns 2 members to the Imperial Parliament; constituency in 1853, 3,282. The Borough rates in 1851 amounted to £1,725, of which, and a balance of £140 from the previous year, £231 was applied to municipal elections; and £1,263 to salaries and pensions of municipal officers. The Assizes are held here; also Quarter Sessions; a Manor Court, or Court Leet; and daily Petty Sessions, at which the Mayor presides. The town is the residence of the county Resident Magistrate. It is the head quarters of the Constabulary for the district, comprising the stations of Belfast, Lisburn, and White-well Brae. All persons committed for offences are now sent to the new Bridewell, which is the gaol for Antrim county. The County Gaol of Belfast is the prison for the County and Town of Carrickfergus. The paving, lighting, and cleansing are vested in a police committee, chosen by the town council under a special Act; annual average expense, £9,000. The supply of pipe water, which is obtained from a spring 2 miles S., and 3 large reservoirs 1 mile N. of the town, is under Commissioners, incorporated in 1840. There are public baths and wash-houses, opened in 1847; in 1851, 11,331 persons bathed; 57,715 articles were washed for the poor, and 43,661 were washed for other persons. Belfast is the nucleus of the Irish linen manufacture, and the country spinners and manufacturers meet those of the town on Fridays in the Commercial Buildings, which is the public Exchange. This trade is now in a flourishing condition and rapidly increasing. In 1838, there were 50 steam engines of 1,274 horse power; of these, 11 were erected in 1838, 17 in 1835-6-7, 10 between 1830 and 1834, and 12 between 1806 and 1827; all employed in spinning linen or cotton yarn, in weaving, bleaching, and dyeing, &c. In 1841 there were 25 spinning mills in Antrim and Down, and 48 in all Ireland, numbering 248,000 spindles. There are in the town and vicinity 33 mills, and in all Ireland 76, numbering 506,000 spindles. Those in the town are all worked by steam power, and employ 32,000 hands. There are 5 cotton spinning factories in or near the town, containing 90,000 spindles. The other chief branches of industry are linen and cotton weaving, iron founding on an extensive scale, and bleaching. There are also print works, flour mills, chemical works, oil mills, alabaster and barilla mills, saw mills, breweries, distilleries, several tan yards, a patent felt manufactory, flax-steeping works, &c., 5 large ship yards, with 2 patent slips, and yards for manufacturing ropes and sail-cloth. Fairs are held on the first Wednesday of each month; Markets on Fridays, besides daily markets for domestic purposes. There are 3 Banks, the Northern, Belfast, and Ulster, and branches of the Bank of Ireland, and of the Provincial Bank. The inland trade is carried on by the Lagan navigation, which connects the town with Lough Neagh, the Ulster Canal, which connects Lough Neagh with Enniskillen, and by the Ulster, Ballymena, and County Down Railways, which connect the town with the Counties of Antrim, Down, Armagh, Tyrone, and Derry; a railroad from the Cave Hill, 3 miles from Belfast, conveys limestone to the quays. The termini of the Ulster, Ballymena, and County Down railways are handsome structures. The Ulster railway communicates with Dublin at Portadown station, where it joins the Dublin and Belfast junction line.

The harbour was originally only a creek of the port of Carrickfergus; but on the purchase of the privilege by the Crown, in 1637, the Custom House for the district was established here. Prior to 1839, large vessels had to lie in the pool or basin of Garmoyle, 4 miles from the town, but in 1840, a new channel was formed, having 9 feet water at low tides. The effect of this improvement is the increase of tonnage from 445,537 tons, in 1845, to 684,132 tons in 1852. Vessels drawing 16 feet water can now come up in neap tides, and those drawing 18 feet, in spring tides. The improvements of the port, which, with all matters connected with traffic by sea, are under the management of the Harbour Commissioners, established by statute in 1831, and elected by the rate-payers, are of very great extent, having cost about £450,000, raised in local loans on the security of the harbour dues. The quays extend in a continuous line from the Queen's Bridge on both sides of the river to the commencement of the New Cut. They were private property, until purchased by the Harbour Board. Formerly, vessels could only discharge on the N. side, now reserved for steamers and ships in the foreign trade; colliers and vessels in the coasting trade being accommodated on the S. side, called Queen's Quay, where there is a coal exchange and coal factors' offices and yards. There are 2 docks—Prince's and the Clarendon—which are reserved for foreign shipping. In the process of deepening the channel, three islands have been formed; the largest, named Queen's Island, has been planted and laid out in public walks, and a building of iron and glass erected within it for holding bazaars, &c. On one of these islands, 2½ miles from the town, there is a powder magazine. In 1825, the net income of the port was only £6,000; and in 1851, £30,759. There are 2 Lighthouses and several beacons. The Lighthouse dues collected for the port in 1843, amounted to £5,817. The pilot establishment has 3 masters, 21 branch pilots, 2 mates, 4 boys, and 9 supernumeraries. The general mercantile interests are taken care of by the Chamber of Commerce, a voluntary association formed in 1783, and revived in 1802. The commerce of Belfast is very great; its imports, in 1835, amounted to £3,695,438; its exports to £4,341,794. In a document on harbours, published by the Admiralty, the imports in 1850 are estimated at £6,938,238, and the exports at £4,633,062. The chief items of imports as given, are,—

Linen and cotton yarn, . . .	£870,260	Broad stuffs, . . .	£2,147,151	Timber and slates, . . .	£113,118
Flax, hemp, and tow, . . .	508,121	Sugar, . . .	228,000	Coals, . . .	183,095
Cotton manufactures, . . .	945,000	Tea, . . .	133,000	Flax-seed, . . .	87,497
Woollen do., . . .	194,950	Spirit, wine, and ale, . . .	133,716	Iron and machinery, . . .	51,530
Other textile fabrics, . . .	84,566	Tallow and oil, . . .	134,192	Chemicals, . . .	95,009

The chief exports are given as follows:—

Linen manufactures, all kinds, £2,804,106	Butter, ...	£380,640	Whiskey, ...	£25,060
Cotton do., do., ...	463,440	Live stock, ...	240,021	Staroh, ...	$2,030
Flax and tow, ...	113,900	Bread stuffs, ...	34,379	Hides, leather, and glue, ...	16,394
Cured provisions, ...	203,295	Fowls, eggs, and feathers, ...	41,110	Iron machinery and castings, ...	24,540

The most important branch of its commerce is the cross-channel trade; about 40 steamers ply regularly between this port and London, Plymouth, Liverpool, Fleetwood, Morecambe, Glasgow, Ardrossan, Stranraer, Whitehaven, Dublin, and Derry. The passage to Liverpool, Glasgow, and Dublin, averages 14 hours; to Greenock, 16 hours; to Ardrossan, 8 hours; to London, 80 hours. There is also an extensive trade with the United States and Canada, the West Indies, the Mediterranean, the Baltic, and Archangel, and of late a limited trade with China and the East Indies. The following statement exhibits the vast increase of the Shipping entering the Port, and of its Revenue, in the last 66 years :—

Years.	No. of Vessels.	Tonnage.	Revenue.	Years.	No. of Vessels.	Tonnage.	Revenue.
1786	773	34,287	£1,533	1835	2,730	290,769	£9,225
1795	801	52,578	2,307	1845	3,635	415,537	25,001
1805	840	69,585	3,728	1850	4,490	624,113	29,012
1815	1,134	91,371	4,169	1851	5,016	650,938	30,759
1825	2,060	163,441	6,200	1852	5,813	708,840	—

The dues levied in 1851 were on 84,716 tons of shipping engaged in the foreign and colonial trade; and on 256,439 tons, sailing vessels, and 309,783 tons, steamers, in the coasting and cross-channel trade.

CARLOW COUNTY.

CARLOW, an inland county in Leinster province. Boundaries: N., Kildare and Wicklow; E., Wicklow and Wexford; S., Wexford; W., Kilkenny and Queen's. Greatest length, N. and S., 29 miles; greatest breadth, E. and W., 20½; comprising an area of 346 square miles, or 221,342 acres, of which 184,059 are arable, 31,249 uncultivated, 4,927 in plantations, 602 in towns, and 505 under water. The surface is generally level, except the baronies which adjoin the county Wicklow, and which partake of its hilly character. On the western side of the river Barrow the colliery range extends from N. to S. through the barony of Idrome West, some of the hills rising to the height of 1,000 feet above the level of the sea, which, being in some places wooded and cultivated to the top, form a beautiful landscape. On the Eastern side a succession of fertile table-land extends to Borris, and on the S. is Mount Leinster, attaining a height of 2,604 feet. The Slaney flows through the county, as also the Barrow, which skirts it on the W.; the northern part separating it from the Queen's County, the middle part, from its own barony of Idrome West, and the southern part, from the county of Kilkenny. The sinking of the river Burren by the Board of Works, has contributed much to the value of the alluvial soils of the interior of this county. The staple trade is in corn, flour, meal, butter, and provisions, which are exported in large quantities.

The county is divided into 7 baronies—Carlow, Forth, Idrone E. and W., Rathvilly, and St. Mullins Lower and Upper, and contains 47 parishes. It is in Leighlin diocese. The principal towns are Carlow, part of which, called Graigue, is in Queen's County; population, in 1851, 9,121; Tullow, 2,963; and Bagnalstown, 2,292. The county returns 3 members to Parliament, 2 for the county at large, constituency, in 1854, 2,267; and 1 for Carlow borough, constituency, 221. The Assizes are held at Carlow. The county is within the Curragh or South-eastern military district, and contains 1 Barrack Station for Cavalry and Infantry at Carlow.

The net annual value of property rated to the poor in the county is £149,841, and the amount of property valued under the Act 6 & 7 Wm. IV., cap. 84, is £166,739.

Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum, Earl of BESSBOROUGH, P.C. (1838), Bessborough House, Pilltown, co. Kilkenny; Garrihill, Carlow; and 40, Charles-street, Berkeley-square, London.

CARLOW BOROUGH.

CARLOW, an inland town and parliamentary borough in Carlow barony and county, and Leinster province, on the Barrow, 40 miles S.W. by S., from Dublin, comprising within its electoral boundary an area of 572 acres, which includes the suburb of Graigue, in the Queen's county, on the west side of the river. Population of Carlow, in 1841, 8,736; of Graigue, 1,673; total of the borough, 10,409, of whom 1,600 were of the Established Church, 8,659 Roman Catholics, and 140 of other persuasions, inhabiting 1,514 houses, averaging nearly 7 persons to a house. Population in 1851, 9,121, inhabiting 1,375 houses.

The public buildings are 3 Churches, the Roman Catholic Cathedral for the united dioceses of Leighlin and Kildare, the Roman Catholic College and School, 2 Nunneries, the Diocesan School, a Presbyterian, a Methodist, and a Friends' Meeting-house; the County Court House, Prison, Infirmary, and Union Workhouse; the District Lunatic Asylum for Carlow and Kildare; a Fever Hospital, and Barracks for a troop of cavalry and 2 companies of infantry. A bridge of 5 arches over the River Barrow connects the suburb of Graigue with the town.

The Corporation, which was styled "The Sovereign, Free Burgesses, and Commonalty of the Borough of Catherlagh," by the recent Municipal Reform Act is now extinct, and the borough was placed under the Towns' Improvement Act in 1855. The borough returns 1 member to Parliament; constituency in 1854, 221. A branch of the Great Southern and Western Railway connects Carlow with the metropolis, and the Irish South Eastern Railway connects the town with Kilkenny. The Assizes for the county are held here, also Quarter and Petty Sessions. Fairs are held on 4th May, 22nd June, 26th August, and 8th November; Markets on Mondays and Thursdays; all toll free. The Barrow, which is navigable above the town to its junction with the Grand Canal at Athy, affords great facilities of export, chiefly of grain and butter, to Dublin and Waterford. There are in the town and its vicinity several flour mills and malt houses; butter of superior quality is largely exported. There are three newspapers published in the town, the Carlow Post, Carlow Sentinel, and Carlow Weekly News, all on Saturdays.

Member for the Borough—JOHN ALEXANDER, esq. (1853), Milford, Carlow; Kildare-street Club, Dublin; and Carlton Club, London.

Parcel and Lumber Boats ply between Dublin, Ross, and Waterford, through Carlow, for the conveyance of butter, flour, &c., for the English markets; and coals, &c., from Ross and Dublin, for the use of the intermediate towns.

CARRICKFERGUS BOROUGH.

CARRICKFERGUS, a maritime county of a town and a parliamentary borough in Ulster province, situate on the N. shore of Carrickfergus Bay or Belfast Lough, and enclosed on all other sides by Antrim county, is 11½ miles N. from Dublin. It comprises an area of 26 square miles, or 16,700 acres, of which 12,483 are arable, 4,088 uncultivated, and 129 in the town. The surface is hilly; Lough Mourne, a lake of about 90 acres, is 556 feet above high sea level. The number of farms of more than 1 acre each is 479, on which there was in 1841 a stock of 1,241 horses and mules, 2,375 horned cattle, 380 sheep, 2,281 pigs, 3,919 head of poultry, and 49 asses, all being of the estimated value of £18,921. The population of the county of the town in 1834, was 8,860, of which 1,387 were of the Established Church, 6,499 Protestant Dissenters, and 974 Roman Catholics. In 1851 the population of the town was 3,543, being 342 less than in 1841.

Carrickfergus was formerly a place of great strength; some traces of fortifications remain, and the castle, built on a rock projecting into the sea, is still kept up as an arsenal, and is mounted with heavy guns. Its public buildings are the Town Hall, Market Place, Parish Church, Dissenting and Methodist Meeting-houses, Roman Catholic Chapel, and Court House.

The Corporation, which was styled "The Mayor, Sheriffs, Burgesses, and Commonalty of the Town of Carrickfergus," under the provisions of the Municipal Reform Act, was dissolved, and a board of Municipal Commissioners constituted, in whom is vested the corporate property, valued at £330 per annum. The Borough returns 1 member to Parliament; constituency in 1855, 1,137. The borough income, derived chiefly from rents, tolls, and dues, amounted in 1853, to £700, of which about £350 was applied to public works, harbour improvements, repairs, paving, and cleansing, and £174 in salaries and allowances to municipal officers. There is a Manor Court for the recovery of debts under £20. The town has some trade and manufactures, and extensive fisheries, the district of which comprises 61 miles of maritime boundaries, and had in 1856, 164 registered vessels, employing 571 men and boys. The oysters taken off the coast are prized for their size and flavour. About one and a-half miles north-west of the town, salt rock, remarkably pure and of great thickness, has recently been discovered on the property of the Marquess of Downshire; a company has recently been established for the purpose of manufacturing the salt. The trade consists of the import of coal, and the export of cattle and grain. The landing pier is much improved of late; vessels of 100 tons and upwards can now discharge at it, and there is a Patent Slip where vessels can be repaired. The Customs' duties, having been purchased up in 1637, and the Custom House transferred to Belfast, its value as a shipping port has ceased. The annual amount of landed property, valued under 6 & 7 Wm. IV., c. 84, is £13,521. Fairs are held on 12th May and 1st November; Markets on Saturdays; a butter market on Mondays, and one monthly for the sale of cattle. A branch of the Belfast and Ballymena railway terminates here.

Member for the Borough—Major The Hon. WELLINGTON HENRY STAPLETON COTTON (1847), eldest son of Field-Marshal Viscount Combermere, Combermere Abbey, Nantwich, and 48, Belgrave-square, London.

CASHEL CITY.

CASHEL, an inland city and parliamentary borough in the barony of Middlethird, county of Tipperary, and Munster province, 100 miles S.W. from Dublin, comprises a municipal area of 4,018 acres, of which 3,764 are in the rural district, and 254 in the city. The population in 1851 was 4,798, inhabiting 819 houses; in 1841 the population was 7,936, inhabiting 1,090 houses.

The city is built on the S. and E. sides of an isolated rock, called the "Rock of Cashel," in the middle of an extensive plain, two miles E. of the river Suir. It was the seat of the archiepiscopal, now the episcopal see of Cashel, and preserves several relics of its ancient splendour. On the summit of the rock was the palace of the ancient Kings of Munster, the ancient Cathedral, Cormac's Chapel, the Episcopal Palace, and a Round Tower, the extensive remains of which, from their elevated position above the surrounding country, have a grand effect. The modern public buildings are the new Cathedral, the Episcopal Palace, now converted into a Deanery-house, the Roman Catholic Chapel, the Court-house, Market-house, Fever Hospital, National School, Town Commissioners' Hall, Barracks, and co. Tipperary Infirmary.

The Corporation, which was styled "The Mayor, Aldermen, Bailiffs, Citizens, and Commons, of the City of Cashel," has become extinct under the Municipal Reform Act, and its property, comprising upwards of 2,000 acres, with several holdings in the city, was vested in Commissioners, under 9 Geo. IV., c. 82, for the paving, lighting, and improving the town. The grant of those lands forms part of that made by Maurianus, Archbishop of Cashel, to the Corporation, by charter dated 12th July, 1229. The city is supplied with water from a distance of three miles, by a leaden pipe, said to have been the same as originally laid down by the monks of St. Francis' Abbey, Cashel, in the reign of Edward II. To receive the water from the pipe, there has been recently erected a large and elegant cut stone reservoir. It has been also well lighted with gas. The Borough returns 1 member to Parliament; constituency in 1853, 126. To carry out the provisions of the Act, a valuation has been made by order of the Commissioners: 756 houses were valued under £5; 81 from £5 to £10; 87 from £10 to £20, and 79 at £20 and upwards. The income of the borough, chiefly arising from the rates and the rents of the corporate estates, amounted in 1849 to £3,675, of which £806 17s. 1d. was applied to public works, and repairs and cleansing; and £2,494 2s. 3d. in officers' salaries, rents, and law expenses. The Great Southern and Western Railway passes within six miles of the city. Fairs are held on 26th March, 7th August, and the third Tuesday of every month; markets on Wednesdays and Saturdays; all toll free except the monthly fairs.

Member for the Borough—Sir TIMOTHY O'BRIEN, bart. (1847). 14, Merrion-square, east, Dublin, and British Hotel, Cockspur-street, London.

CAVAN COUNTY.

CAVAN, an inland county in Ulster province. Boundaries: N., Fermanagh and Monaghan; E., Monaghan and Meath; S., Meath, Westmeath, and Longford; W., Longford and Leitrim. Greatest length, S.E. and N.W., 51 miles; greatest breadth, N. and S., 28 miles; comprising an area of 746 square miles, or 477,360 acres; of which 375,473 are arable, 71,918 uncultivated, 7,325 in plantations, 502 in towns, and 22,142 under water. The surface is undulating, with mountainous ranges in the N. There are indications of coal, iron, copper, and lead, and numerous mineral springs, of which that at Swanlinbar is the most celebrated. The soil is light and poor, except along the courses of the rivers. Lakes are numerous; many highly picturesque. The population in 1841 was 243,158; 234,914 in the rural, and 8,244 in the civic district, and in 1851, the total population of the county was 174,071, being a decrease of 69,087. The occupations are chiefly agricultural. The linen trade was carried on here extensively, and there are still many bleach-grounds.

The county is divided into 8 baronies—Castlerahan, Clonkee, Clanmahon, Loughtee Lower and Upper, Tullygarvey, Tullyhaw, and Tullyhunco, and contains 36 parishes, &c. It is chiefly in Kilmore diocese. The principal towns are, Cavan, population in 1851, 3,254; Cootehill, population 2,105; and Belturbet, including the suburb of Kilconny, 2,054. The county returns 2 members to Parliament; constituency in 1853, 4,909. The Assizes are held at Cavan. There are barracks in Cavan and Belturbet.

The net annual value of property rated to the poor in the county is £248,415, and the amount of property valued under 6 & 7 Wm. IV., cap. 84, is £247,817. There is one newspaper published in the county, the Anglo Celt, on Wednesdays, at Cavan.

CLARE COUNTY.

CLARE, a maritime county in Munster province. Boundaries: N., Galway Bay and Galway; E. and S., the Shannon, which separates it from Tipperary, Limerick, and Kerry; W., the Atlantic Ocean. Greatest length, N.E. and S.W., 67½ miles; greatest breadth, N.W. and S.E., 38 miles; comprising an area of 1,294 square miles, or 827,994 acres, of which 455,009 are arable, 296,035 uncultivated, 8,304 in plantations, 728 in towns, and 67,920 under water. The coast is in general rocky, and in some places bold precipitous cliffs; it is indented with several bays, the principal of which are Ballyvaghan, Liscannor, and Malbay; there are also Doonbeg, Ballard, Farrally, Moore Bay, and Ross Bay; and in the estuary of the Shannon, Rineveilla, Kilbaha, Carrigaholt, Poul-na-sherry, and Clonderlaw Bay; Kilrush Creek, and the estuary of the Fergus, which is the only large river; off the coast, in the Atlantic, is Mutton Island, and in the Shannon, Scattery and Hog Island. At Loop Head, the northern entrance of the Shannon, and the most western point of the county, there is a Lighthouse, and another at Kilcredann Point, in the estuary of the Shannon, both showing fixed lights. The surface is diversified, mountainous in the N.E. and E., and in the N.W. and W.; the centre an undulating plain, the soil varying from light limestone pasture in the N., to deep rich loam along the Shannon in the S.; the W., which is a portion of the Munster coal-field, is cold and wet land, interspersed with bog. Lime is the principal mineral; but there are valuable lead mines worked at Kilbreckan, Ballyhickey, and Milltown, and some thin seams of coal and culm in the S.W. The produce is almost wholly agricultural. The chief trade is corn and provisions, and some of the best sheep and cattle are reared on the excellent pasturage of this county; coarse linen and hosiery are manufactured for home use. The population in 1841 was 286,394; 267,907 in the rural, and 18,487 in the civic district, and in 1851, the total population of the county was 212,428, being a decrease of 73,966.

The county is divided into 11 baronies—Bunnatty Lower and Upper, Burren, Clonderlaw, Corcomroe, Ibrickane, Inchiquin, Islands, Moyarta, and Tulla Lower and Upper, and contains 80 parishes, &c. It includes the diocese of Kilfenora, the greater part of Killaloe, and a small portion of Limerick. The principal towns are Ennis, population in 1851, 8,623; Kilrush, 4,471; Ennistymon, 1,741; and part of Killaloe, 1,830—the other part, named Ballina, with 400 inhabitants, is in Tipperary county. The county returns 3 members to Parliament: 2 for the county at large, constituency in 1853, 3,144; and 1 for the borough of Ennis, constituency, 149. The Assize town is Ennis. The county is within the military district of Cork; there are barrack stations for infantry at Ennis, Clare Castle, Killaloe, and Kilrush; and for artillery in the forts of Scattery Island, Donnaha, Kilcredaun, Blackwater, and Kilkerrin.

The net annual value of property rated to the poor in the county is £209,656; and the amount of property valued under 6 & 7 Wm. IV., cap. 84, is £314,287.

Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum, The Right Hon. LORD INCHQUIN (1843), Dromoland, Newmarket-on-

Ennis (1856-57), FRANCIS GORE, esq., Tyredagh

Members for the County—CORNELIUS O'BRIEN, esq. (1832-47, 1852), of Birchfield, Lahinch, in this county. 9, Upper Merion-street, Dublin, and 14, Abingdon-street, London.—General Sir JOHN FORSTER FITZGERALD (1852), K.C.B., Club Chambers, Regent-street, London.

CLONMEL BOROUGH.

CLONMEL, an inland town and parliamentary borough, partly in the S. Riding of Tipperary, and partly in Waterford county, Munster province, 104 miles S.W. from Dublin; comprising 331 acres. Population in 1834, 17,835; of which 1,737 were of the Established Church, 250 Protestant Dissenters, and 15,848 Roman Catholics: population in 1841, 13,505, inhabiting 1,455 houses, averaging 9 persons to a house; population in 1851, 12,518, inhabiting 1,374 houses.

It is built on both sides of the Suir, and on Moore and Long Islands, which are connected with the mainland by 3 bridges. The public buildings are, the Parish Church, 3 Roman Catholic Chapels, a Presbyterian, a Unitarian, a Baptist, a Friends', and 2 Methodist Meeting-houses, 1 Christian Brethren Community, 2 Convents, a Female School under the Sisters of Charity, an Endowed School, a Model School under the National Board, and a School built by the Society of Friends, a Mechanics' Institute, the Court House and Prison for the S. Riding, a Fever Hospital and Dispensary, the District Lunatic Asylum for Tipperary county, a Market House, and Barracks for cavalry, infantry, and artillery. The woollen manufacture was carried on here extensively till the Union in 1800; flour is largely manufactured; there is a brewery in the town.

The Corporation, styled "The Mayor, Free Burgesses, and Commonalty of the Town of Clonmel," returns 1 member to Parliament; constituency, in 1853, 328. The corporation estates comprise 4,800 Irish acres; the Borough rate in 1851 amounted to £700, expended in salaries, &c., to municipal officers, and in public works and repairs. The Mayor's Court decides pleas of debt under 40s. Irish. The paving and cleansing of the streets, the lighting, supplying water, and abating nuisances, are in charge of the Corporation. There were, in 1843, 470 houses valued at £20 and upwards, and rated at 8d. in the pound; 270 at £10 and under £20, rated at 6d.; and 472 at £5 and under £10, rated at 4d.; total for the year, £822. The Assizes for the S. Riding are held here. Fairs are held on 5th May, 5th Nov., and the first Wednesday in every month; Markets on Tuesdays and Saturdays. Two newspapers are published in the town, the Clonmel Chronicle and the Tipperary Free Press, both on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

COLERAINE BOROUGH.

COLERAINE, a maritime town and parliamentary borough, in the N. E. Liberties of Coleraine, in Londonderry county, Ulster province, 145 miles N. from Dublin; comprising a municipal area of 963 acres; population in 1834, 6,143, of which 1,441 were of the Established Church, 3,825 Protestant Dissenters, and 877 Roman Catholics; population in 1841, 6,253, inhabiting 1,132 houses, averaging 5½ persons to a house; population in 1851, 5,920, inhabiting 1,063 houses.

The town is built on each side of the Bann, 4 miles from the sea, over which is a splendid stone bridge of 3 arches, 96 yards in length by 32 feet in breadth, and cost £14,500. It consists of a central square called the Diamond, and several diverging streets. The portion on the W. side of the Bann is called Waterside, and Killowen. The public buildings are, 2 Parish Churches, 2 Roman Catholic Chapels, 3 Presbyterian, 1 Independent, 1 Methodist, and 1 Baptist Meeting-houses, the Town Hall, Court House, and Market House, and an Endowed School, and a very handsome National Model School in Waterside, adjoining the town. The linen trade has been long and extensively carried on here, particularly in a fine description called "Coleraines," the annual sales are estimated to amount to about £600,000. Here also soap, candles, and leather are manufactured. The salmon fisheries on the river are farmed at £1,200 annually by the Irish Society to Messrs. Allen and Gordon. The number of salmon taken in the river Bann, in 1843, were 21,660, and in 1844, 15,011, of which latter number 13,464 were exported. There are upwards of 300 persons employed as water-bailiffs in the protection of the rivers and its tributaries. A brisk export trade, chiefly to Liverpool by steam, is carried on through Portrush, the shipping port, about five miles from the mouth of the Bann, and five miles from the town, the harbour of which is formed by two moles or breakwaters, one 800 the other 650 feet in length, with an entrance 200 feet wide, and the whole covering an area of 8 acres, with from 15 to 20 feet depth of water at the wharfs, but vessels of 200 tons can discharge at the quay of Coleraine. The paving, &c., is in charge of 21 Commissioners; value of property rated, £8,355; amount of annual rate in 1843, £177. Gas-works have lately been erected. The amount of property valued for Poor-rate in the Union is £66,862.

The Corporation, whose style was "The Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Town of Coleraine," has become extinct, and its property, amounting in 1844 to £1,335, chiefly arising from rents, and the tolls and customs, is now vested in the Town Commissioners. The Borough returns 1 member to Parliament; constituency, in 1853, 246. One newspaper, the Coleraine Chronicle, is published in the town on Saturdays.

Member for the Borough—Right Hon. Lord NAAS (1852), eldest son of the Earl of Mayo, Palmerstown House, Naas, co. Kildare; and 79, Eccleston-sq., London.

CORK COUNTY.

CORK, a maritime county in Munster province; the largest of Ireland, both in extent of surface and of arable land. Boundaries: N. Limerick; E. Tipperary and Waterford; S. the Atlantic Ocean; W. Kerry. Greatest length, E. and W., 110 miles; greatest breadth, N. and S., 70 miles; comprising an area of 2,885 square miles, or 1,846,333 acres; of which 1,308,882 are arable, 465,089 uncultivated, 52,180 in plantations, 6,515 in towns, and 12,867 under water. The coast is indented with numerous bays; the principal of which are, Bantry, Dunmanus, Clonakilty, Kinsale, Cork Harbour, and Youghal. Off the coast are the islands of Cape Clear (population, 1,052), Whiddy, and several smaller. There is a Lighthouse on Cape Clear island, showing a light revolving every two minutes, one at the Old Head of Kinsale, one at Roche's Point, and one at the entrance to Cork Harbour, showing fixed lights; there is also one at the mouth of Youghal Harbour, and one showing a red light, and built on iron screws, at the Spit Bank, Queenstown. The W. part of the county is mountainous; the N. and E. extremely fertile. The mineral productions are chiefly iron, which was raised in quantities until the timber for smelting was exhausted; copper, the mines of which at Allahies employ from 1,500 to 2,000 hands; coal, limestone, fullers' earth, and brick clay. Throughout the whole county there is a great diversity of soil, climate, and scenery. The population in 1841 amounted to 773,398; of which 633,919 were in the rural, and 89,479 in the civic district, exclusively of Cork city; and in 1851, the total population of the same districts was 563,326, being a decrease of 210,072.

The county is divided into E. and W. Ridings for the purpose of holding general sessions of the peace; the East Riding has been sub-divided into 3 districts for Quarter Sessions purposes, and the West Riding into 2 divisions. There are in the county 23 baronies.—E. Riding: Barretts, Barrymore, Condons and Clongibbons, Cork, Duballow, Fermoy, Imokilly, Kerrycurrigh, Kinsale, Kinnataloon, part of Muskerry E., Orrery and Kilmore, Kinsale, and Youghal Liberties.—W. Riding: Bantry, Bear, Carbery E. and W., consisting of the E. and W. divisions of each of these baronies, Courceys, Ibane and Barryroe, Kinalmeaky, Muskerry W. and part of Muskerry E., and contains 251 parishes. It comprises the dioceses of Cork, Cloyne, Ross, and a small part of Ardferd. The principal towns are, Cork city, population in 1841, 80,720; in 1851, 85,745; Youghal, 7,410; Bandon, 6,929; Kinsale, 5,506; Mallow, 5,436; Fermoy, 5,844; Queenstown, 11,428; Macroom, 3,727; Skibbereen, 3,856; Kanturk, 3,150; Middleton, 3,676; Charleville, 2,685; Mitchelstown, 3,091; Bantry, 2,943; Clonakilty, 3,300; Dunmanway, 2,222; Doneraile, 1,856; Cloyne, 1,733; and Millstreet, 1,504. The county returns 8 members to Parliament; 2 for the county at large, constituency, in 1853, 13,473; 2 for Cork city, constituency, 3,152; and 1 for each of the boroughs of Youghal, Bandon, Mallow, and Kinsale; constituencies, 317, 205, 243, and 156. The Assizes are held in Cork city. Cork is the head-quarters of the military district of that name; and there are barrack stations at Kinsale, Charlesfort, Camdenfort, Fermoy, Ballincellig, Carlisle-fort, Spike-island, Youghal, Hawilbowline, Rockey island, Mitchelstown, Buttevant, Mallow, Bandon, Dunmanway, Millstreet, and Clonakilty. A depot for convicts has been established at Spike-island, where persons sentenced to transportation are to remain, instead of being sent to New South Wales; there is accommodation for 1,500, and its first occupation as such was on the 9th of October, 1847.

The net annual value of property rated to the poor in the county is £971,622.

CORK CITY.

CORK, a county of a city, in Munster province, the third in Ireland in population, wealth, and commerce; 159 miles S.W. from Dublin: lat. $51^{\circ} 53' 39''$ E.; long. $8^{\circ} 20'$ W.; comprising within its ancient chartered boundaries, an area of 48,006 acres; and within its modern municipal boundaries, 2,683 acres. Population of the county in 1834, 167,016, of which 15,731 were of the Established Church, 1,160 Protestant Dissenters, and 76,783 Roman Catholics; unascertained, 3,342. Population of the municipal borough, in 1841, 80,720; the number of inhabited houses in the borough was 8,773, averaging 9.2 persons to a house. The population of the city according to the Census of 1851, is 85,745, an increase of 5,025 inhabitants since 1841; the number of inhabited houses has also increased to 9,419.

The city, situate on the river Lee, which here diverges into several branches, and forms an island, is 11 miles inland from the entrance of the river into Cork harbour. The county contained the parishes of the Holy Trinity, St. Paul's, St. Peter's, and parts of St. Anne's Shandon, St. Mary's Shandon, St. Finnbarr's, and St. Nicholas', which now constitute the municipal district, and the remaining parts of the preceding parishes, with the parishes of Currikippane, Kilcully, Rathcooney, and parts of Ballinaboy, Carrigaline, Carrigrohane, Dunbulloge, Inishkenney, Kill-nully, Kilnagorry, St. Michael, and Whitechurch, now constituting the new barony of Cork, in Cork county. The public buildings are, the Cathedral, 6 Parish Churches, and 2 Chapels of Ease, 3 Roman Catholic Parochial Chapels, 4 Monasteries, and 2 Nunneries, with a chapel attached to each; 2 Presbyterian, 4 Methodist, 1 Baptist, 1 Independent, and 1 Friends' Meeting-houses; the Episcopal Palace of the Bishop of the consolidated dioceses of Cork, Cloyne, and Ross; the Diocesan Library; the County Court House; the Military Barrack, a large building, situated on an eminence which commands the city; the new Queen's College, which was opened in November, 1849, at Gill Abbey, west of the Bishop's Palace, and situate on the south branch of the river Lee; the County and City Prisons; the House of Correction; the Savings' Bank; the North and South Infirmaries; the Lunatic Asylum; the Custom House; the Commercial Buildings; the Chamber of Commerce; and the Cork Institution. Among the numerous charitable and benevolent institutions, the principal are the 2 Infirmaries, the Fever Hospital, 2 Lying-in Hospitals, 2 Houses of Refuge for destitute females, the General Dispensary, the Foundling Hospital, and the St. Patrick and Masonic Orphan Asylums. The principal Scientific and Literary Institutions are the Cork Institution, the Cork Library, the Mechanics' Institute, the Agricultural, Horticultural, and Cuvierian Societies, and the Art-Union. There are Schools of Medicine, Anatomy, and Surgery; and numerous schools for general education. The head-quarters, and Staff of the Cork, or Southern Military District of Ireland, are stationed here. Near the city is a Cemetery, after the plan of Pere La Chaise, on the site of the old Botanic Garden, and the Mardyke, a public walk, a mile in length, on the W. of the city. A Park has also been lately enclosed, containing about 240 acres, extending from the Victoria-road, along the south bank of the river to Blackrock. Carriage drives and walks are in course of formation, upon ground where three years since the tide flowed. There are 9 bridges over the river and its branches.

The corporation, styled "The Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of Cork," consists of the Mayor, 16 Aldermen, and 48 Town Councillors, chosen from the 8 wards of Lee, St. Patrick's, Glanmire, Corn-market, St. Finnbarr's, Mansion House, Exchange, and Custom House, and returns 2 members to Parliament; constituency, in 1853, 3,152. The income of the Borough in 1851, was £7,504 1s. 5d., of which £1,789 7s. 6d. was applied to salaries and pensions to municipal officers, £636 12s. 9d. to public works, £722 2s. 1d. in rents, rates, &c., £439 17s. 8d. in municipal elections and law expenses, £1,503 9s. 1d. in interest on debt and loans paid off, and £2,646 7s. 11d. for miscellaneous expenses. The Assizes for the county and city are held here. The Recorder holds a weekly court for personal actions every Thursday, and a monthly court for civil bill jurisdiction, as an assistant barrister; also a weekly court for criminal cases. The public works are in charge of separate commissions: the Wide Street and Harbour have each 30 commissioners; the Commercial Buildings, 15 directors; the Chamber of Commerce, 14 directors; the markets are in charge of the mayor, sheriff, and 27 trustees; the Committee of Merchants consists of 4 presidents and 29 members; the Pipe Water Committee of 12 members.

The principal manufactures are tanning, distilling, brewing, iron foundries, gloves, gingham, and friezes. The trade is extensive, chiefly in grain, provisions, and butter; and there are 12 Markets in different districts.

The Harbour, pre-eminent for its capacity and safety, is situate 11 miles below the city; it is 3 miles long, 2 broad, completely land-locked, and capable of sheltering the whole British Navy. Its entrance is by a channel, 2 miles long and 1 broad, defended by batteries on each side, and by others in the interior. The upper portion extends for about 5 miles below the City to Passage, and this part since 1820 has been considerably deepened by steam dredging, so that vessels of 600 tons can unload at the quays, where at low water there is a depth of 7 feet. The tide flows up $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles above the City. 140 Pilots belong to the port, under the control of the Harbour Commissioners. The quays cost £100,000 in building. The income of the port in 1845 amounted to £9,897, arising chiefly from import and export, ballast and tonnage dues, and is applied to sundry purposes of the harbour, quays, &c. Within the harbour are Great Island, Little Island, Foaty Island, Spike Island, on which is a Bomb-proof Artillery Barrack, and where a Convict Depot has been lately established for the reception of persons sentenced to transportation, Hawlowline Island, containing an Ordnance Depot, and Rockey Island, in which there are 2 Powder Magazines, excavated from the rock. The exports in 1835, consisting chiefly of cattle, grain, provisions, and linen, were £2,909,846; the imports, £2,751,684. The Great Southern and Western Railway, connecting the city with Dublin, opened for traffic to Blackpool, near the city, on the 18th October, 1849. The Cork, Blackrock, and Passage Railway runs along the river through the City Park, from the road near the Monereen Marsh; the Cork and Bandon Railway terminates at the Monereen Marsh, or Albert-quay.

DONEGAL COUNTY.

DONEGAL, a maritime county in Ulster province. Boundaries: N., the Atlantic Ocean; E., Lough Foyle, Londonderry, and Tyrone; S., Tyrone, Fermanagh, and Leitrim; W., the Atlantic Ocean. Greatest length, N.E. and S.W., 85 miles; greatest breadth, S.E. and N.W., 41 miles; comprising an area of 1,865 square miles, or 1,193,443 acres, of which 393,191 are arable, 769,587 uncultivated, 7,079 in plantations, 479 in towns, and 23,107 under water. The coast is indented by numerous bays, of which the principal are, Lough Swilly, Lough Foyle, Mulroy, Sheephaven, Teelin, Killybegs, Inver, and Donegal. The islands are numerous; 17 are inhabited; the principal are, Innistrathul, North Arran, and Tory. On Innistrathul there is a Lighthouse, showing a light revolving every two minutes; there are other Lighthouses, showing fixed lights, on Tory Island, at Fannet Point, W. of Lough Swilly, Rathlin, O'Beirne's Island, N.W. side of the entrance to the Bay of Donegal, and at St. John's Point, Killybegs. The surface is mountainous and boggy. The lakes are numerous, but small; the most remarkable is Lough Derg, 3,214 acres, having in it St. Patrick's Purgatory, a celebrated place of pilgrimage. Rivers are numerous, but small. The subsoil is chiefly granite, mica-slate, and limestone. The climate is moist; potatoes, oats, and flax, are the chief crops; spade husbandry is practised along the west coast. The population in 1841 was 296,448; 290,022 in the rural, and 6,426 in the civic district; and in 1851, the total population of the county was 255,160, being a decrease of 41,288. The occupations are chiefly agricultural; the linen manufacture is now reviving, and weaving is extensively carried on, especially in the town and neighbourhood of Raphoe; that of woollen stockings is increasing, and much employment is afforded to the otherwise unemployed female population by the worked-muslin trade; the inhabitants near the coast are much occupied in the fisheries, and in the making of kelp from sea-weed, an article which is largely exported to Glasgow.

The county is divided into 6 baronies—Bannagh, Boyleagh, Inishowen East and West, Kilmacrenan, Raphoe North and South, and Tyrhugh. It contains Raphoe diocese, and parts of those of Derry and Clogher, consisting of 51 parishes. The principal towns are, Ballyshannon, population in 1851, 3,697; Letterkenny, 1,947; and Ramelton, Donegal, and Killybegs, which are seaports, and carry on a considerable trade. The county returns 2 members to Parliament: constituency in 1853, 4,054. The Assizes are held at Lifford. The county is within the military district of Dublin, and there are artillery stations at the forts of Rathmullen, Knockalla, Macemish, Dunree, Inch and Ned's Point, on Lough Swilly and at Greencastle on Lough Foyle, and barracks for infantry at Ballyshannon and Lifford.

The net annual value of property rated to the poor in the county is £267,398, and the amount of property valued under 6 & 7 Wm. IV., cap. 84, is £222,287. There is one newspaper published in the county, the Ballyshannon Herald, on Friday.

Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum, The Most Hon. the Marquess of ABERCORN, K.G., P.C. (1844), Baron Court, Newtownstewart, county Tyrone, and Chesterfield House, South Audley-street, London.

High-Sheriff (1856-57), WILLIAM HENRY MARSHAM STYLE, esq., Glenmore, Stranorlar.

Members for the County—THOMAS CONOLLY, esq. (1849), D.L., Cliff, Ballyshannon, in this county; Castletown, Celbridge, county Kildare; and 19, Hanover-square, London.—SIR EDMUND SAM'L. HAYES, bart. (1831), D.L., Drumboe Castle, Stranorlar, in this county, and 21, Lowndes-street, London.

DOWN COUNTY.

DOWN, a maritime county in Ulster province. Boundaries: N., Antrim and Carrickfergus Bay; E. and S., the Irish Sea; W., Armagh. Greatest length, N.E. and S.W., 51 miles; greatest breadth, N.W. and S.E., 38 miles; comprising an area of 967 square miles, or 612,495 acres, of which 514,180 are arable, 78,317 uncultivated, 14,355 in plantations, 2,211 in towns, and 3,482 under water. On the coast are, Carrickfergus Bay, Strangford Lough or Lough Cone, Killough, Dundrum, and Carlingford Bays; and at a short distance from it are the Copeland Islands, on the lesser of which is a Lighthouse showing a fixed light; there are also four others, viz.: at Hawlbowligh Rock, off Carlingford Bay, showing a fixed light; on the south rock, off the Ardes, with a light revolving every 1½ minutes; at Ardglass Harbour; and one revolving light at St. John's Point. The surface is hilly, rising into mountains in the south; the highest, Slieve Donard, being 2,809 feet above high sea level. The river Lagan skirts the county on the N., and the Bann on the W. The subsoil is clay-slate, and some limestone, with granite in the S. The soil is of medium quality; the chief crops, potatoes, barley, oats, and flax. Linen is the staple manufacture. The population in 1841 amounted to 361,446; of which 323,807 were in the rural, and 37,639 in the civic district, and in 1851, the total population of the county was 328,754, being a decrease of 32,692.

The county is divided into 11 baronies—Ards Lower and Upper, Castlereagh Lower and Upper, Dufferin, Iveagh Lower and Upper, Kineleary, Lecale, Mourne, and Newry Lordship, and contains 70 parishes, &c. It is in the dioceses of Down and Dromore, with a small portion in that of Connor. The principal towns are, Downpatrick, population in 1851, 4,098; Newtownards, 9,567; Banbridge, 3,361; Donaghadee, 2,818; Bangor, 2,850; Rathfriland, 2,053; Portaferry, 2,074; and part of Newry, 9,616; the remaining part, containing 3,875 inhabitants, is in Armagh county. The county returns 4 members to Parliament; 2 for the county at large, constituency in 1853, 10,690; 1 for Downpatrick, constituency, 222; and 1 for Newry, constituency, 467. The Assizes are held at Downpatrick. The county is within the military district of Belfast.

The net annual value of property rated to the poor in the county is £637,939; and the amount of property valued under 6 & 7 Wm. IV., cap. 84, amounts to £500,833.

Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum, The Most Hon. the Marquess of LONDONDERRY, K.ST.P., P.C. (1845), Colonel of the Royal North Down Rifles, Mount-stewart, Newtownards; and Chesham-place, London.

DOWNPATRICK BOROUGH.

DOWNPATRICK, a maritime town and parliamentary borough, in Down county, Lecale barony, and Ulster province; 74 miles N.E. from Dublin; comprising an area of 1,487 acres, of which 278 are in the town, and 1,209 in the rural district; population in 1851, 4,098, inhabiting 724 houses.

The town, situate in a steep valley, near the S.W. angle of Strangford Lough, is divided into the English, Irish, and Scotch quarters, and consists of 4 main streets, meeting near its centre, the principal of which are Irish and English streets, in the former of which all business is carried on, and the latter is well built, and contains several neat private residences. The public buildings are the Cathedral of Down diocese, the Parish Church, a Roman Catholic Chapel, 2 Presbyterian, and 2 Methodist Meeting-houses, the Diocesan School of Down and Dromore diocese, the County Court House, Prison, Infirmary, and Fever Hospital, the Northern Bank, the Ulster Bank, Alms' Houses, Widows' Houses, and Barracks. The town is lighted with gas.

The Borough returns 1 member to Parliament; constituency in 1856, 200. The Assizes for the county, Quarter Sessions, and Petty Sessions, a Manor Court, with jurisdiction to the amount of £10, and Courts leet are held here. In 1846, an Act was obtained to light the town with gas. A small export trade is carried on by means of vessels of 100 tons, from Lough Strangford, which can discharge at the Quail-quay, 1 mile from the town; but vessels of larger tonnage can discharge at the steam boat quay lower down the river. Brewing, tanning, soap making, &c., are carried on here. The County Down Railway, when completed, will connect the town with Belfast, the fair-towns of Crossgar, Saintfield, Ballynahinch, Comber, and Newtownards; also with the ports of Bangor and Donaghadee. A regular monthly fair, on the first Saturday, is now held throughout the year, the old fairs being abolished. Markets on Tuesdays and Saturdays. There are two newspapers in Downpatrick, the Downshire Protestant, published on Fridays, and the Downpatrick Recorder, published on Saturdays.

DROGHEDA BOROUGH.

DROGHEDA, a maritime county of a town in Leinster province, situate between Meath and Louth counties, and 31½ miles N. from Dublin by railway, comprising an area of 9 square miles, or 5,780 acres, of which 5,308 are in the rural district, and 472 in the town; population in 1831, 17,365, of which 1,437 were of the Established Church, 265 Protestant Dissenters, and 15,663 Roman Catholics; population in 1841, 17,300; population in 1851, 16,845, inhabiting 2,957 houses.

The town is situate on the Boyne, 4 miles from the sea. The public buildings are 3 Protestant Churches, 2 Roman Catholic Chapels, one of which is considered to be the Cathedral of the archdiocese of Armagh, 3 Friaries, 2 Nunneries, a Presbyterian and a Methodist Meeting-house, an Endowed School, the Mansion House, Tholsel, Town Prison, Linen Hall, Custom House, Inland Revenue Office, Corn Market, Savings' Bank, and Infantry Barracks, capable of accommodating 400 men. The number of pupils in the public schools in 1841 was, in the rudimental schools, males, 752, females, 204; in the superior schools, males, 48, females, 39; total, 1,043, being nearly one-third of the population between the ages of 6 and 15, both inclusive, which amounted to 3,583. The linen manufacture, after flourishing here for some time, gave way to that of cotton, which in turn was superseded by flax-spinning, but both the latter are now carried on to a great extent. Three flax mills give employment to upwards of 1,000 persons; that called St. Mary's, which is the largest, cost £50,000 for its erection. There are 6 corn-mills, 5 salt works, a distillery, 2 breweries, 8 tanneries, and 4 soap works. The iron works of Messrs. T. Grendon & Co. give employment to upwards of 300 persons in the manufacture of steam engines, boilers, iron bridges, &c., also brass works. The brewery of William Cairnes is celebrated for the excellence of its ale, which is largely exported to the Colonies. The rural portion contains 45 farms of more than 1 acre each, on which there was in 1841, a stock of 362 horses and mules, 310 horned cattle, 4 sheep, 1,370 pigs, 2,501 head of poultry, and 26 asses, all of which were of the estimated value of £6,716. The town has been divided for municipal purposes into 3 wards, Westgate, Fairgate, and Laurencetate; the rural portion has been formed into baronies, and transferred to the adjoining counties: the portion N. of the Boyne to Louth, the S. to Meath.

The Corporation, styled "The Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Borough of Drogheda," consists of 6 Aldermen and 18 Town Councillors, elected from three wards. The town returns 1 member to Parliament; constituency, in 1853, 586. The corporate estates contain 2,032 acres, producing in 1845, £3,802; the income of the borough in 1851, amounted to £3,936 3s. 2½d.; of which £960 4s. 9½d., was applied to salaries and pensions to municipal officers; £681 16s. 1d. to watching, lighting, paving, and cleansing; £295 4s. 2d. to public works; and £1,967 11s. 6½d. to sundry purposes. The Assizes, Quarter Sessions, and Petty Sessions are held in the town. The corporation has charge of the paving, lighting, watching, and cleansing of the streets. Fairs are held on second Monday in March, second Friday in April, 12th May, 22nd June, 26th August, 29th October, third Friday in November, third Friday in December; a cattle market on Thursdays, and a corn market on Saturdays; all toll free.

Drogheda carries on a considerable trade, chiefly with Liverpool. The exports, which are principally corn, meal, flour, cattle, provisions, linen, &c., amounted in 1835 to £766,027, and the imports for the same period, consisting of coal, manufactured goods, and Colonial produce, amounted to £259,854. First-rate steamers are constantly plying to and from Liverpool. The harbour, formed by the waters of the Boyne, 4 miles from the sea, extends about half a mile below the bridge, with 16 to 18 feet of water abreast the quays. Prior to 1830, vessels drawing 12 feet water only, could sail in, but now those of 400 tons can moor at the quays; that on the N. of the river extends 720 yards, and on the S. 107 yards in length; the tide flows up as far as Oldbridge, 2½ miles above the town, from whence the Boyne navigation for barges of 50 tons extends inland to Navan, 19 miles. The port and harbour are under Commissioners, constituted by Act of 5 Vict., by whom the port has been considerably improved, and its revenue within the last few years more than doubled, done partly by the erection of the quays, but chiefly by steam dredging. The dredge is of 16 horse power, and capable of raising 400 tons of mud per day. Fifty-three pilots belong to the port, who are under the control of the Commissioners. There is one small ship-building yard, and a patent slip. At the entrance of the harbour are 3 lighthouses, distinguished as N., E., and W., 2 of which are movable, according to the changes in the bar. The lighthouse duties in 1843 amounted to £745. The income, arising chiefly from harbour dues, in 1845 amounted to £3,533, of which about one-half was expended in dredging, repairing quay walls, &c., and salaries; the remainder to pay off the principal and interest of debt incurred. The Dublin and Drogheda Railway was opened for traffic in 1844, and an extension of the line is open to Castleblayney. There is also a branch line open to Navan and Kells, and the Belfast Junction Railway is open to Newry and Armagh. A viaduct, 95 feet in height, across the river Boyne, connects the Drogheda and Belfast Junction Railways. Two newspapers are published in the town, on Saturdays, the Drogheda Argus and Drogheda Conservative.

Off the S. coast is the Kish Bank Light Ship, showing 3 fixed lights; and in Dublin harbour are fixed lights on the Bailey of Howth, Poolbeg, Howth Harbour, Balbriggan, and the North Wall, and a revolving light at Kingstown. The only river of note is the Liffey. The prevailing character of the subsoil is calp limestone and granite. The surface is level, rising at its southern boundary into a range of elevated hills, the summit of the highest of which, Kippure, is 2,473 feet above high sea level. The population in 1841 was 140,047, of which 113,778 was in the rural, and 26,269 in the civic district, exclusive of Dublin city, and in 1851 the total population of the same district was 146,731, being an increase of 6,684.

The county is divided into 9 baronies—Balrothery East and West, Castleknock, Coolock, Dublin, Nethercross, Newcastle, Rathdown, and Uppercross, and contains 83 parishes, of which 7 are partly in the city, and 1 partly in this and the adjoining county of Kildare. The county is in the arch-diocese of Dublin, and in Glandelagh diocese. The principal towns are, Kingstown, population in 1851, 10,453; Balbriggan, 2,310; Harold's-cross, 2,934; Rathmines, 3,216; Rush, 1,496; Swords, 1,294; Skerries, 2,327; Blackrock, 2,372; Ranelagh, 3,209; part of Bray, 1,030; the other part in the county Wicklow, 2,126. The county returns 2 members to Parliament; constituency in 1852, 6,657. The Assizes, or Commission of Oyer and Terminer, are held at Green-street, every six weeks. The county is the head-quarters of the military district of Dublin, as well as that of the Commander-in-Chief and Staff of Ireland.

The amount of property valued under 6 & 7 Wm. IV., cap. 84, is £500,840.

DUNDALK BOROUGH.

DUNDALK, a maritime town and parliamentary borough, in Upper Dundalk barony, Louth county, and Leinster province, 50 miles N. from Dublin, comprising an area of 450 acres; population in 1841, 10,782, inhabiting 1,798 houses, average 6 persons to a house; population in 1851, 9,995, inhabiting 1,679 houses.

It is situate at the mouth of the small river of Castletown, on the coast of Dundalk Bay. The public buildings are the Parish Church, a Roman Catholic Chapel, a Friary, a Convent, Presbyterian and Methodist Meeting-houses, the County Court House, Infirmary, and Prison, Guildhall, Market House, Endowed Grammar School, National Schools, and Barracks. There are in the town, 2 breweries, 2 flour-mills, a first-rate distillery, a rectifying distillery, a flax spinning-mill, and a starch manufactory.

The Corporation, styled "The Bailiff, Burgesses, and Commonalty of the Borough of Dundalk," returns 1 member to Parliament; constituency in 1853, 294. The lighting, cleansing, and watching of the town is vested in Commissioners; the amount of rate collected in 1842, was £748, collected from 355 houses rated at between £5 and £10, 276 houses between £10 and £20, and 308 above £20. In 1851 the Borough rates amounted to £641, of which £358 was applied to the watching, lighting, and cleansing; the remainder in salaries and allowances to municipal officers and miscellaneous expenses. Fairs are held on the third Wednesday of every month, except May, when it is held on the 17th; Markets on Mondays; all toll free. The Assizes for the county are held here, also Quarter Sessions and Petty Sessions; and a new county prison has been lately erected.

The town carries on a brisk trade, chiefly in grain, cattle, butter, and eggs, and within the last 5 years is estimated to have increased 20 per cent., owing to the harbour improvements. The port and harbour, which is in charge of Commissioners under Act 3 & 4 Vic., c. 119, since 1837, is in progress of improvement, and on which £20,150 has been expended, under the direction of Sir John Macneill. The river has been straightened, and the bar and harbour deepened by steam dredging, from 5 to 8 feet, so that vessels drawing 16 feet water can now come up. The channel, when completed, will be 150 feet wide at the quays, and 300 feet at the point. The rise of tide at the bar is 16 feet, and at the bridge 7 feet. A lighthouse on the screw-pile principle has been erected at the bar within the last few years. There are 22 pilots belonging to the port, licensed by the Harbour Commissioners. The income of the port, arising chiefly from tonnage and ballast dues, &c., amounted, in 1850, to £2,370. The Dundalk railway is now complete between Dundalk and Drogheda, and Drogheda and Ballybay, and Dundalk and Belfast. The Castleblayney line will shortly be extended to Enniskillen, at Clones, and thereby connect the western and north-western counties with the port. Steamers ply regularly to Liverpool three times a-week, taking about 150 tons each trip, chiefly oatmeal, wheat, barley, oats, butter, bacon, lard, hams, eggs, linens, flax, and other articles, computed at 23,400 tons annually, besides horses, cows, sheep, and pigs, averaging 650 each trip, and 72,150 annually. The imports, which consist of Indian corn, flour, groceries, box and bale goods, amount to about 18,200 tons annually. There are two newspapers in the town, The Louth Advertiser and Newry Examiner, published on Wednesdays and Saturdays; and the Democrat, published on Saturdays.

Member for the Borough—(GEORGE BOWYER, esq. (1852), D.C.L., eldest son of Sir George Bowyer, bart., Radley Park, Abingdon, Berkshire; and 13, King's Bench Walk, Temple, London.

DUNGANNON BOROUGH.

DUNGANNON, an inland town and parliamentary borough, in Dungannon barony, Tyrone county, and Ulster province, 9½ miles N.W. from Dublin, comprising an area, according to its ancient chartered boundary, of 836 acres, and to its modern parliamentary boundary, of 230 acres; the population in 1841, was 3,801, inhabiting 589 houses, and in 1851, 3,854, inhabiting 616 houses.

It is situate on the acclivity of a hill, at a distance of 8 miles from Lough Neagh, and consists of a square and several streets. The public buildings are the Parish Church, Roman Catholic Chapel, two Presbyterian and two Methodist Meeting-houses, Court House, Bridewell, Market House, Savings' Bank, Union Workhouse, Temperance Hall, Fever Hospital, Endowed School, Dungannon Institute, and the Earl and Countess of Ranfurly's School. In the Market House there is a well supported News Room. The town is lighted with gas, and has been considerably improved of late years, by the erection of several handsome houses. Linens are manufactured, and also coarse earthenware, fire-brick, and tile works; there is a flax spinning-mill, and corn-mill in the town, which are well supplied with coal from the Drumglass and Coal-island collieries in the neighbourhood, and from England by the Newry canal.

The Corporation, which was styled "The Provost, Free Burgesses, and Commons of the Borough of Dungannon," is now extinct. The Borough returns 1 member to Parliament; constituency in 1853, 191. The general market is on Thursday; and that for grain on Mondays and Thursdays.

FERMANAGH COUNTY.

FERMANAGH, an inland county in Ulster province. Boundaries: N., Donegal and Tyrone; E., Tyrone and Monaghan; S., Cavan; W., Cavan and Leitrim. Greatest length, N.W. and S.E., 45 miles; greatest breadth, N.E. and S.W., 29 miles; comprising an area of 714 square miles, or 457,195 acres, of which 289,228 are arable, 114,847 uncultivated, 6,155 in plantations, 210 in towns, and 46,755 under water. The surface generally exhibits a succession of abrupt eminences of slight elevation; it is mountainous along the western boundary, from Ballyconnell to the sea, and also between Lisnaskea, Fivemiletown, and Rosslea. Lough Erne, its most attractive feature, extends from one extremity to the other, for 45 miles, in a N.W. direction; it bisects the county, and is divided into Upper and Lower—the Upper extends from Wattle-bridge to Enniskillen; the Lower from Enniskillen to Rosscar, where its waters are contracted, and form the river Erne, which extends to the county Donegal, and falls into the sea at Ballyshannon. It is navigable during the winter season through its whole extent to the fall at Belleek, within three miles of Ballyshannon; and a steamer of 20 horse power plies between Enniskillen and the Ulster canal at Wattle-bridge. The other lakes next in size are Loughs Melvin and Macnean. The soil is variable, heavy, and retentive of moisture, light and friable, and moorish. Coal and iron ore are found in small quantities, and there is sand and limestone in abundance; the climate mild and moist. The trade in butter is considerable; and the linen manufacture, of a coarse description, chiefly for domestic use, is carried on to a small extent. The population in 1841 was 156,481; 150,795 in the rural, and 5,686 in the civic district. According to the Census of 1851, the total population of the county was 116,007, being a decrease of 40,474.

The county is divided into 8 baronies—Clannawley, Clankelly, Coole, Knocknanny, Lurg, Magheraboy, Magherastephens, and Tyrkenney, and contains 23 parishes, &c. It is chiefly in Clogher diocese, with a small portion in that of Kilmore. The only large town is Enniskillen, population in 1851, 5,998. The county returns 3 members to Parliament—2 for the county, constituency in 1853, 4,365; and 1 for Enniskillen borough, constituency, 182. The Assizes are held in Enniskillen. The county is within the military district of Dublin; and there are barracks at Enniskillen and Belleek.

The net annual value of property rated to the poor in this county is £195,864; and the amount of property valued under 6 & 7 Wm. IV., cap. 84, £168,906.

Lieut. and Custos Rotulorum, Rt. Hon. the Earl of ERNE Members for the County—Capt. MERVYN ARCHDALL (1840), D.L., Riversdale, Enniskillen; and 23, Half-moon-street, London.—Hon. HENRY ARTHUR COLE (1855), brother to the Earl of Enniskillen, Florence Court, Enniskillen; and 97, Mount-street, London.

GALWAY COUNTY.

GALWAY, a maritime county in Connaught province. Boundaries: N., Mayo and Roscommon; E., Roscommon, King's, and Tipperary; S., Clare, and Galway Bay; W., the Atlantic Ocean. Greatest length, E. and W., 164 miles; greatest breadth, N. and S., 52 miles; comprising an area of 2,447 square miles, or 1,566,354 acres: of which 742,805 are arable, 700,000 uncultivated, 23,718 in plantations, 1,801 in towns, and 90,030 under water. The coast is indented with numerous bays. The principal islands are, Inishmore, population 2,592; Inishmaan, 473; Inishere, 456; Garomna, and Inishark: on Inishmore there is a Lighthouse showing a light revolving every 3 minutes; there are Lighthouses with fixed lights at Sline Head in Connemara, and on Mutton Island, in Galway Harbour; and one with a revolving light on the Island of Arran. Lough Corrib divides the county into the E. and W. districts, and is navigable from the sea to Lough Mask in Mayo; and in the summer of 1853 a small steamer plied on its entire length. Lough Derg is an expansion of the Shannon, which forms part of the eastern boundary of the county. The W. district, named also Iarconnaught, Connemara, and Joyce's Country, is mountainous and rugged, poorly inhabited, parts almost desolate, but capable of high degrees of cultivation at moderate expense, and from its wild and beautiful scenery is crowded every summer with tourists; the E., level, and mostly arable, with much bog. Iron and lead ore has been found; and the former worked, when timber for smelting it was abundant; but limestone and marble are the chief minerals. In Connemara there is abundance of most beautiful green variegated marble, called Serpentine; the black near Oughterard is very fine, and has been exported to the London and other markets. The occupations are chiefly agricultural: coarse linens and woollen stockings are manufactured, and kelp along the shores. At Oughterard a linen-weaving factory has been established, and on the coast fishing affords occupation to many of the inhabitants. A company for deep sea fishing and trawling has lately been established in Galway. A branch of the Grand Canal extends from Shannon Harbour to Ballinasloe. Loughs Corrib and Mask are being made navigable from the sea at Galway. The population in 1841 was 422,923; 403,746 in the rural, and 19,177 in the civic district, exclusive of Galway town; and in 1851 the total population of the same district was 298,564, being a decrease of 124,359.

The county is divided into 18 baronies—Arran, Athenry, Ballymore, Ballynahinch, Clare, Clonmacnowen, Dunkellin, Dunmore, Galway, Kilconnell, Killian, Kiltartan, Leitrim, Longford, Loughrea, Moycullen, Rose, and Tiaquin, and contains 120 parishes. The county comprehends the whole of Kilmacduagh diocese, and parts of those of Tuam, Clonfert, Elphin, and Killaloe. It returns 4 members to Parliament—2 for the county at large, constituency, in 1853, 3,344; and 2 for Galway town, constituency, 1,286. The principal towns are, Galway, Tuam, Loughrea, Gort, and Ballinasloe: population in 1851, 20,686, 4,938, 6,342, 2,405, and 4,063. The Assizes are held in the town of Galway. It is in the Connaught circuit. This county is within the tithe district of Dublin; there are Barrack stations at Loughrea, Dunmore, Portumna, Galway, Gort, and Oughterard.

The net annual value of property rated to the poor in the county is £362,466; and the amount of property valued under 6 and 7 William IV., cap. 84, £423,165. Besides the newspapers published in Galway, the Western Star is published in Ballinasloe on Tuesdays, and the Tuam Herald in Tuam.

Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum, The Most Hon. the Marquess of CLANRICARDE, K.S.T.P., P.C. (1831), Colonel of the Galway Militia, Portumna Castle, in this county; and 2, Carlton House-terrace, London.

GALWAY BOROUGH AND COUNTY OF THE TOWN.

GALWAY, a maritime county of a town, in Connaught province, situate on the north side of Galway Bay, and bounded on every other side by Galway county, 130 miles W. from Dublin; comprising an area of 24,132 acres, of which 628 are in the town, and 23,504 in the rural district; population in 1831, 33,120, of which 922 were members of the Established Church, 81 Protestant Dissenters, and 32,117 Roman Catholics; population in 1841, 32,511, of which 17,275 were in the town, and 15,236 in the rural district, inhabiting 4,755 houses; population in 1851, 20,686.

The town, built on both sides of the river that discharges the superfluous waters of Lough Corrib 3 miles distant, and is crossed by 3 bridges, consists of the old and new towns and the suburb of Claddagh, inhabited wholly by fishermen. The principal buildings are the Protestant Church, 3 Roman Catholic Chapels, 3 Monasteries, 5 Nunneries, Presbyterian and Methodist Meeting-houses, the County and Town Court Houses and Prisons, the County Infirmary, a Fever Hospital, an Endowed and a Charter School, the Custom House, the Union Workhouse, and 2 Barracks: also the new Queen's College, which was opened in November, 1849; a new model school, on the National system, situated near the Poor House and Queen's College, the terminus of the Midland Great Western Railway, at which is opened a magnificent Hotel, and the County Club House. A site for extensive military barracks, in a most healthy situation, is laid down a mile from the town, commanding it and the bay. The Midland Great Western Railway extends from Dublin to Galway, having been opened for traffic throughout on the 1st of August, 1851. There is an extensive line of quay wall; and a canal runs from the harbour, through the town, to Lough Corrib and Lough Mask. There are 3 breweries, 2 distilleries, a paper mill, 3 foundries, a tan-yard, and several flour mills, in the town and its vicinity. The town is lighted with gas by a Joint Stock Company, formed in 1836. Salmon and sea fish are abundant, and the system of trawling has at last been successfully introduced, and even the Claddagh fishermen use their own boats for that mode of fishing. The average quantity of salmon taken by weir and nets in the Galway river, each year, in the last ten, amounted to ten tons, and in 1845, 5,195 salmon were caught by the weir and net; 32 water-bailiffs are employed in protecting this fishery. Fairs are held on 31st May, 4th September, and 21st October; Markets on Wednesdays and Saturdays. The town and 7 parishes form an exempt ecclesiastical Protestant jurisdiction, under a warden; but, according to the Roman Catholic arrangement, it forms a see comprising 12 parishes.

The town is governed by the High Sheriff, Recorder, Local Magistrates, and a Board of 24 Commissioners, elected triennially, who have charge of the property of the town arising from tolls, and valued at about £2,000 yearly, besides harbour dues, which in 1845 amounted to £2,100, which is chiefly applied to the repair of the pier, dock-gates, buoys, and mooring-posts. It returns 2 members to Parliament; constituency in 1853, 1,286; and holds Civil and Criminal Courts, with unlimited jurisdiction. The Assizes for the county are held here. The Recorder holds a Court for Pleas of debt to any amount.

The bay of Galway is an immense sheet of water protected from the swell of the Atlantic by the natural break-water of the Arran Isles, and possessing great advantages for foreign trade, particularly to America. On the highest point of Arranmore Island, 498 feet above the level of the sea, is the Port Lighthouse, a revolving light, every 3 minutes, that can be seen 25 miles off in clear weather; but being considered too high in foggy weather, two new lighthouses are about to be erected on the North and South Isles of Arran. The port and harbour are regulated by a Board of 63 Commissioners, elected for life. Since 1832, the harbour improvements have been carried on with great spirit and enterprise. The floating dock comprises 5 acres, and admits vessels of 14 feet draught and of 500 tons to moor, when the gates are closed. On Mutton Island, is the Harbour Lighthouse, 33 feet above high water. The exports consist chiefly of agricultural produce, wool, and marble. Beautiful black marble slabs of large size are exported to London and America; mills for sawing and polishing are in the town. There are three newspapers published in the town, viz., the Vindicator, Express, and Mercury.

KERRY COUNTY.

KERRY, a maritime county, in Munster province. Boundaries: N., the estuary of the Shannon, E., Limerick and Cork; S., Cork, and Kenmare estuary; W., the Atlantic Ocean. Greatest length, N. and S., 60 miles; greatest breadth, E. and W., 56 miles; comprising an area of 1,833 square miles, or 1,186,126 acres, of which 414,614 are arable, 726,775 uncultivated, 11,169 in plantations, 807 in towns, and 32,761 under water. The principal bays along the coast are Tralee, Brandon, Smerwick, Dingle, Ballinskellig, and Kenmare estuary. The principal islands are Valentia, population 2,920, the Blasquets, and the Skellig rocks, on one of which there is a Lighthouse showing 2 fixed lights. The face of the country is formed of mountain ranges, intersected by deep valleys, with some level ground. The summit of Carran Tual, the highest mountain in Ireland, is 3,410 feet above high sea level. The lakes of Killarney are small, but peculiarly picturesque, and are now accessible by the Killarney Junction Railway from Mallow, on the Great Southern and Western line. The subsoil is slate and red sandstone, with limestone in the low districts. Iron ore abounds; copper and lead ores are found in many places, and mines are worked near Kenmare and Tralee. The coal veins of Duhalloow run into the north-eastern part of the county. Slate of a superior kind, and flag-stone, are raised in quantities at Valentia. The population in 1841 was 293,880; 269,406 in the rural, and 24,474 in the civic district; and in 1851 the total population of the county was 238,239, being a decrease of 55,641. The occupations are dairy farming, tillage, and fishing; the chief crops, potatoes, oats, and turnips.

The county is divided into 8 baronies—Clanmaurice, Corkaguiny, Dunkerron, Glenarought, Iraghticonnor, Iveragh, Magunihy, and Trughanacmy, and contains 87 parishes. The principal towns are, Tralee, population in 1851, 9,957; Killarney, 5,962; Dingle, 3,262; and Listowel, 2,126. The county is in the dioceses of Ardferd and Aghadoe; it returns 3 members to Parliament—2 for the county, constituency, in 1852, 4,960; and 1 for Tralee borough, constituency, 315. It is in the Munster circuit. The Assizes are held in Tralee. The county is within the military district of Cork; there is a Barrack station at Tralee.

The net annual value of property rated to the poor in the county is £261,758.
